$60 million GC Steel improvement

Continuous slab caster, furnace change will aid energy, air purity

A $60 million capital improvement program for the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation was announced in Pittsburgh, Pa., today by George A. Stinson, chairman. Principal elements of the program are:

—A continuous-pouring slab-casting machine to produce about one million tons of steel slabs per year—half of Granite City Steel's slab requirements.

—Adaptation of the local plant's two 235-ton, top-blown basic oxygen furnaces, making them jointly top- and bottom-blown to permit the use of more scrap steel.

—The board of directors authorized these projects (Wednesday afternoon) because they will allow Granite City Steel to achieve substantial energy savings and environmental gains as well as significant improvements in operating efficiency and productivity, product quality, and competitive position," Chairman Stinson said. "At the same time, they should result in greater yield from available hot metal, and expand the range of products available from Granite City Steel."

He emphasized that both projects strongly support National's objective to be "the" low-cost producer, "thereby providing greater stability to our earnings."

"The slab caster will increase National's technological lead by boosting the amount of slabs we can cast to about 40 percent of our total shipments," Stinson said.

The slab caster is scheduled to be completed in early 1981, while the furnace project has been targeted for completion by the end of 1980. Work will begin this year.

CONTINUOUS SLAB CASTER DESIGNED FOR GC STEEL

Excerpts from the 1979 economics seminar of the American Iron and Steel Institute:

About 40 percent of the steel now produced in Japan is produced via continuous casting, whereas in the U.S. the comparable figure is about 14 percent.

There is a substantial gap in the application of new technology between American and Japanese steel industries, but there is no knowledge gap.

One of the most modern, advanced and up-to-date continuous casting machines anywhere in the world is the 104-inch continuous slab casting machine started up by National Steel Company at its Great Lakes (Detroit area) plant in November 1977.

The 104-inch slab caster is the world's largest.

It also is unique in its total depend-

Add two police

The Madison police force will be increased by one officer on May 1, and a second officer will be hired as soon as legal proceedings are finished in relation to a suspended Madison officer, Alderman Thomas Gordon, chairman of the city aldermanic finance committee, announced at Tuesday evening's Madison council meeting.

Based on figures presented to us at a special finance committee meeting last week, we feel we can hire the additional police at the beginning of our 1979-80 fiscal year May 1," Gordon said.

"I would also like to ask that the top candidates be sent to the next firearms school and the chief check into the availability of an appropriate six week police training school," Gordon added.

Madison Police Chief Donald L. Bridick said Richard Asperger and David Uherick will attend the 24-hour mandatory firearms training on Feb. 27.

Hearing on closing 3 schools

Closing three elementary schools and other ways of cutting back costs—reductions described as essential for the financial stability of Granite City schools—were discussed by the Board of Education Tuesday night.

Over 50 parents crowded the board room to learn the fate of schools that may be closed. The topic was reviewed, and the citizens left after George Moore, secretary, suggested that a public hearing be set for Tuesday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium on the South High campus.

B. J. Davis, superintendent of schools, spoke to the parents and board members on studies of cost reduction, noting that the board has several possible options to follow, including increasing average class size, closing up to three buildings, encouraging early teacher retirement and curtailing marginal instructional programs.

"An immediate decision is necessary with the district facing a $2.1 million deficit due to funding cuts by the state and federal government," the superintendent said.

"We can expect no relief unless budget legislation in Springfield is updated to meet the needs of all school districts in Illinois, as they are all facing the same problems.

"By taking needed, although not necessarily popular, actions now, this district can and will continue to offer a wide range of quality programs in an attempt to meet the variety of pupil needs and abilities," Davis stressed.

"The board has indicated that, inasmuch as feasible, it does not wish to curtail programs. From an educational standpoint, this is commendable and much different from that undertaken by many other districts in cost reduction efforts."

Davis said that by increasing class sizes, this would reduce some teaching positions, as noted from the most recent class size study.

"If staff reductions are to be made with little effect on programs, closing of buildings appears to be the method that should be used," the board was told. "Buildings can be closed, and pupils and staff reassigned to other buildings without curtailing services. "Closing buildings reduces the staff at all levels—administrators, teachers, instructional support, and non-certificated employees," it was noted.

In the area of early faculty retirements, the superintendent said the district has already instituted this plan. If older teachers utilize the plan, savings will accrue, Davis said.

Former sheriff denies taking payoffs

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
Testimony by former Madison County sheriff John Maeras denying knowledge of any payoff schemes within his office was given Tuesday in Maeras' federal trial at Alton.

U.S. District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman also announced Tuesday that he had dismissed three counts of the federal indictment which alleged mail fraud and obstruction of justice.

Ackerman said he had dismissed counts 16 and 17 of the indictment, which allege mail fraud against Maeras, Capt. John Cooper of the sheriff's department, fund-raiser Leland Stoller and Lee Stoller Enterprises, Inc. of Nashville, Tenn., defendants in the federal case.

He also dismissed count 26 which alleges Maeras and Cooper obstructed justice in asking Lt. Gary Lee Burns of the sheriff's department to lie to a federal grand jury. The judge agreed that testimony by Burns Feb. 6 and 7, failed to prove the allegations.

The dismissed counts leave 23 counts against Maeras and Cooper and 19 against Stoller.

Tuesday's court session began with opening statements by H. Carl Runge, attorney for Cooper, who reserved his opening for the start of the defense.

Runge told the jury that the government's case has relied on testimony from convicted perjurers, from people who have changed their stories on the witness stand and from people who have been involved in "all kinds of

JON WILLIAM KASTELIC

National winner

A top national award of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge was announced today for Jon W. Kastelic, 2 Hanson Drive, Granite City.

The Granite City High School North graduate, a freshman student at Washington University, St. Louis, has just been chosen for the Valley Forge Honor Certificate for Youth Public Address.

His original oration, "The Constitution: A Citizen's Obligation to Protect His Rights," won the Illinois American Legion oratorical state contest a year ago and has now been accorded national attention by the Freedoms Foundation.

Kastelic is majoring in the business pre-law program and is an honor student. His parents are John and Betty Kastelic.

Fourth in the 1978 class at North, he received many awards in debate, speech, history, science and social studies.

Fowl play, but owl is rescued

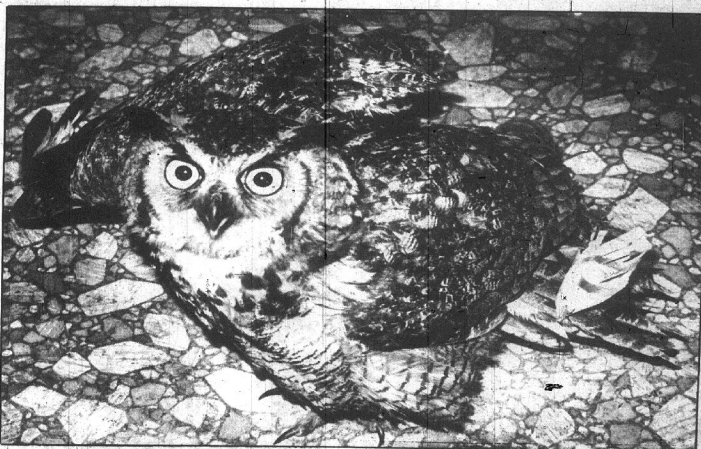

By CATHEY JAMISON

Hoody, or Woody, has two names and a lot of new friends.

He (if indeed he is the male of the species) is a magnificent great horned owl whose body has been crippled by what is believed to have been a bullet. The owl, whose name depends on who you talk to, has come to the attention of a lot of Quad-Cityans in the past few days. A great many people are fast becoming involved in helping it.

It all began when Henry Clark, of Venice, rescued the bird after being attacked by the injured fowl. The owl dive-bombed Clark at the bank of the Mississippi River, near the old Venice boat dock.

Clark, being an avid outdoorsman, knew that the bird must be injured to attack a man. So, he followed when the owl flew awkwardly upriver. He watched from a point more than two miles from where the bird had attacked—as the owl landed in the Chain of Rocks Canal. He stood on shore as the owl made its way out of the water.

A VERY FRIGHTENED great horned owl, above, is causing quite a stir. The photo was taken shortly after the injured bird was rescued.

"Woody" has been taken to Principia College to be rehabilitated.

The Lighter Side

Old rocking chair's got me

Oh, good grief, another birthday. I'm getting to the point where I really don't have any use for the idea of adding another year.

Now I am expected to just accept the fact that I will be 31 years old. No way. I can't stand it.

I'm "pushing 40." That seems absolutely incredible to me. But I cannot escape it. It's as plain as the wrinkle under my left eye. The few grey hairs that were "premature" a few years ago have matured.

I would cry, but then my makeup would wash away and everyone would see how deep the laugh lines are becoming.

There was a time when I looked forward to birthdays. I couldn't wait to turn 18. And on the day of my 21st birthday, I made a point of going into a tavern, hoping to be "carded."

When 25 rolled around, I figured I was at the perfect age. But when I hit 30, I began to panic, until I realized that at least no one would call me "kid" anymore.

Of course, having little children made me feel quite young. As long as they were small, I told myself, I would be the "young" matron.

But somehow, in the last year, those kids have turned into great tall young men. Ross is nearly as tall as I am and Dennis isn't far behind. Won't be too long before the oldest is a TEENAGER.

I can't handle it. There must be some way to prevent that. I don't want to be old enough to be mother to any teenager.

I must come up with a way to prevent myself from getting any older. Maybe if the number would stop going up every year and came down a bit, I wouldn't feel the rocking chair coming on.

I have it. I will spare myself the torture of the numbers. I will tell all who ask that I will be 29 on Saturday, one digit DOWN from what I was last year.

What a terrific idea. I will get younger every year. I may even continue until I am 21 again.

But I'll have to go back up after that, because I doubt if anyone will believe a 40 year old 21 year old.

Rites held for Mrs. Billiter

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at a Litchfield, Ill., funeral home for Mrs. Mary Billiter, 69, of Litchfield, formerly of Granite City.

She died at 8 a.m. Monday, Feb. 19, at the Turtle Creek Convalescent Home in Litchfield.

The Rev. James Ellerbrook, pastor of the Union Christian Church in Litchfield, officiated at the services.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Jacob, and a son, Tom Billiter, both of Litchfield; three sisters, Mrs. Stella Kowalewicz, Mrs. Sophia Lasky and Mrs. Alice Dineff, all of Granite City; a brother, Stanley Sobolewski of Madison; four grandchildren; and nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Billiter was preceded in death by her husband, Howard Billiter, 11 years ago.

Burial was in Elm Lawn Cemetery, Litchfield.

Nab boys for breaking 5 car windows with slingshot

Two 14-year-old Granite City boys have been charged with five counts each of criminal damage to property for allegedly shooting steel balls with a slingshot at passing cars on 23rd Street between Delmar and Edison avenues during the past two and a half weeks.

On Sunday, James McCabe, 2306 Cleveland Blvd., reported the windshield of his car was broken and Darron Dailey, 2233 Benton St., reported the left rear window of his car was broken, both while driving in that block.

Later Sunday, James Harmon, 2323 Cleveland Blvd., said the windshield of his car was broken in that block and he looked up to see two juvenile boys in an upstairs window of a house.

Police then went to that house, questioned two boys and arrested them.

Reports of other vehicles damaged were sought and officers found a report from Saturday by Charles Heth, 2324 Benton St., that the right door window of his car had been broken. Another report was located from Sunday, Feb. 11.

One boy was released to his parents on a notice to appear before juvenile authorities and the other boy was taken to the Madison County Juvenile Detention Home at Edwardsville.

Former sheriff

activities against the police." He said the defense will show that an investigation conducted by Cooper and former Madison policeman Ronald Grzywacz into the activities of the deputies by houses of prostitution, towing companies and others lasted only about two to four months and that they did find places where illegal activities were taking place.

Runge said the two took "specific actions to close" the places where such activities were occurring and closed them down within a short time. By 1973, the last places where prostitution occurred had been closed, Runge stated. The attorney contended evidence will show that Stoller came here for fundraising purposes for the Madison County Deputy Sheriffs' Association, raised money legally, complied with his contract, and gave the association money which was used for charitable purposes.

Runge said records will show that Stoller made a full accounting of his financial transactions, "paid no one" and kept full books on his activities, which he said do balance.

The first witness Tuesday was the current county sheriff, Emil Toffant, who testified that Maeras called him about 1970 and asked if Toffant to leave the state police, where Toffant was commander of District 11, and asked him to become the chief deputy of the sheriff's department.

Toffant said he declined that request. In cross-examination, he explained that Cooper is on a disability leave from the sheriff's department at the present time for a back injury.

Maeras was the next witness. He testified he lives in a five-room frame house at 1008 Elizabeth Street in Madison and served as a Madison policeman, county probate clerk and county treasurer before being elected sheriff in 1970.

Maeras disagreed with testimony from Mrs. Valerie Grzywacz that she had witnessed her husband deliver envelopes of money to Maeras at Maeras' apartment near St. Louis Road in Edwardsville in the summer of 1972. The past sheriff showed red receipts to show that he moved from that apartment in Edwardsville to a townhouse "on the other side of town," on Harvard Drive in Edwardsville, in January 1972.

He agreed with Toffant's testimony that he had asked Toffant in 1970 to be his chief deputy and said he also had his associates ask Toffant to be his chief deputy. He said he had asked Toffant in 1970 to be his chief deputy and said he also had his associates ask Toffant to be his chief deputy.

Maeras said he appointed the late Demos Nicholas as acting chief deputy of the department, hoping he would be able to get either Toffant or Vassel to accept the position.

Maeras said that when he took office in December 1970, he heard rumors of prostitution, of gambling and of payoffs to deputies. The rumors were from members of the department and "various people on the street."

He said he discussed prostitution with Mr. Nicholas and they agreed to bring in "an outsider" to investigate the allegations of payoffs to deputies. Maeras said he did not know which of them suggested Grzywacz, with whom Maeras formerly worked in the Madison Police Department, but he thought that Mr. Nicholas did.

Maeras' defense attorney asked, "Did you know he was a crook at the time?" and Maeras answered, "No, sir."

The former sheriff said he chose an outsider because he did not want deputies might be receiving kickbacks and did not know who to trust. He picked Grzywacz and Cooper, whom he had known before Cooper had joined the sheriff's department.

He testified he asked Grzywacz on several occasions for information on how the investigation was going and Grzywacz told him that it was still going on and that they did not know who was taking payoffs.

Maeras said that after two and half to three months, "at the most," he ordered the investigation ended. He added, "I decided myself that it was over, because all they came up with was that this illegal activity was going on, so I told Demos to start raiding the places."

Responding to testimony by Lt. Delbert Clemens that Maeras had "chewed him out" after a raid at Myrene's Steakhouse for not consulting his superiors, Maeras said he was not in town when the raid occurred and added, "I wouldn't have chewed him out for doing his job, anyway."

Attorney Cook said Myrene's was raided a second time May 22, 1972, and that the following morning, Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith called Maeras. Cook contended Maeras became angry about the call and Cook asked the former sheriff why.

Maeras testified, "He informed me one of the deputies may be dirty — may be on the take. He said he found John Cooper's number on a pad in Myrene's," Maeras said. He said he called Mr. Nicholas and Cooper into his office, confronted Cooper with the allegation and asked for his resignation.

Maeras said Cooper became angry, some "cuss words" were exchanged, and Cooper demanded to have a polygraph (lie detector) test and left the office.

Smith arranged the lie detector test and a few days later called Maeras to say that Cooper was "clean," Maeras testified, adding, "So, I thought that ended the problem."

Judge Ackerman instructed the jurors that the results of the polygraph were only "helpful" but they may consider the answer as it pertains to why Maeras acted in the manner he did.

Maeras testified that a "courtesy card" Grzywacz displayed as authority from the sheriff to conduct an investigation was only a "political card" and that he gave away about 1,000 such cards.

He said he used to sign the cards without names on them and send them to friends and other people who asked for them. Former Sheriff George Musso used the same type of cards and Maeras continued the tradition, the witness said.

He said that on a visit to the Club J Tavern, which housed prostitution — a visit about which other witnesses in the trial have testified — Maeras was accompanied by Deputy Robert Rizzi, Smith and Deputy Wesley Kendall.

Maeras said Charlene "Kitty" Young, who testified she had seen an envelope of money given to Maeras during that visit, was not even present to the best of his memory.

He denied receiving an envelope of money from Mrs. Young's husband, the late Walter Young, former owner of the Club J, and said Mr. Young remained behind the bar and he and Smith talked to him only briefly when they ordered a beer.

Maeras also testified that when he heard allegations of tow truck operators paying deputies for calling them with towing jobs, he implemented a plan to set up zones, with certain operators to be called in if there were traffic crashes in certain zones. Maeras said he didn't suggest to the then chief deputy, Rizzi, which towing firms should be selected for which zones.

Maeras denied receiving 10 percent of money Stoller collected in contributions to the deputies' association, which he said only met Stoller three times, once at a deputies' dance, once when he accidentally saw Stoller at an Edwardsville restaurant and once when he, Stoller and others went to Ralph & Charlie's Restaurant in Madison for breakfast after another deputies' dance.

The former sheriff also denied allegations by former Sgt. Gary Leo Burns that Burns had delivered from $100,000 to $300,000 directly from Stoller to Maeras.

He said Burns once brought him a campaign contribution of $200 to $300 from Stoller; Burns said it was for his campaign, and Maeras told Burns to convey his thanks to Stoller, the witness said.

He commented that he remembered the contribution as a large one, and that the largest he ever received was $500 from a "Mr. Hartberger."

Campaign contributions were always welcome, since he had to pay from $1,700 to $2,000 a year to the county Democratic Central Committee in off-years (when there was no election) and in election years, Maeras testified.

Under cross-examination, by Assistant U.S. Attorney John Carver, Maeras said that the witness who has been accused of demanding a payoff from a towing truck firm, is Maeras' brother-in-law. He said he had no authority to become involved in the Grzywacz-Cooper investigation.

"He, at the time, eventually was the former sheriff testified, "He had no authority from me to do anything about any investigation."

Asked if Grzywacz or Cooper ever gave him any reports about their investigation, Maeras stated, "I never seen any. They must have gone to Demos Nicholas."

When asked if he searched the sheriff's department files for any reports on the investigation after he was indicted, Maeras stated, "No, sir." Maeras said he is confident there were no reports and said any which were made probably would have been turned in to Mr. Nicholas. "I let him run the investigation the way he wanted," the jury was told.

Asked about trips he took with Grzywacz to Las Vegas, Maeras said that the first time they went, "I paid for my own ticket" and the second trip he was on a "junket" where Las Vegas hotels paid for his expenses.

He said that on the first trip, in the summer of 1971, "everyone paid his own way, as best I can recall."

The second, in October 1972, he went free on the junket and does not know how Grzywacz paid for his expenses, the former sheriff testified.

Attorney Carver mentioned the January 1973 raid on the Club J and asked Maeras if he had been notified in advance by the Southwestern Illinois Crime Commission that the raid was planned.

Maeras said he was notified on the Friday the raid was to occur that it was planned, but that the commission ran into a problem with its search warrant and postponed the raid until the following Monday.

Asked by Carver if he knew the crime commission was investigating the Club J due to alleged payoffs to deputies, Maeras responded, "Nobody ever told me that."

Maeras also said that after he had ordered an end to the investigation by Grzywacz and Cooper, he never heard reports they had visited any more places. "Nobody ever complained. Nobody ever called me or nothing," Maeras testified.

Carver asked Maeras if he was aware of the contents of a letter written by Burns which accused Maeras of being a crook and which detailed numerous allegations about Maeras and members of his department.

Maeras said he received a copy of the letter in the mail, asked Burns about it and was told by Burns that he had not written it. "I have to take a man on his word," Maeras said.

He agreed that in January 1976, he promoted several persons, including Burns, who was made a Lieutenant. "He took the test and was on the eligibility list. Yes, sir," Maeras told Carver.

Asked if he and the late Capt. Nicholas ever had a long-standing feud, Maeras said, "I'm not sure to ever have a grudge." He said disagreements with Mr. Nicholas were short-lived and not serious.

Maeras agreed he may have been in Pearl's Horseshoe Lounge after the legal closing hour on several occasions, but said he did not think it happened frequently.

"I would say a man's personal life is his own. Because I was what I was, I don't think that made me better than anyone else," Maeras stated.

He denied taking or requesting clothing allowance money from John Kulaska or other deputies, saying, "I never asked my deputies for anything." When Carver asked if Rizzi ever asked for clothing allowance payments to be given to the sheriff, defense attorneys objected and Judge Ackerman warned, "Quit that, Mr. Carver. Ladies and gentlemen (of the jury), disregard it. That isn't fair."

Cook also called Terry Delaney of Washington Park to the stand in Maeras' defense. Delaney testified he is an investigator with the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement, Division of Investigation, and is on leave to be the Illinois secretary of state's director of investigation.

Delaney said Maeras asked him on several occasions to help with investigations and "harassment" of the Marco Polo Lounge here, the Club J and other establishments.

He said he accompanied Maeras once on a crackdown on gambling puncheards in taverns in the county, reprimanded two tavern owners and obtained the names of the distributors of the puncheards.

Delaney testified under cross-examination by Assistant U.S. Attorney Carver that the sheriff warned him "always give me a free hand, saying, 'If you find anything wrong in this county, go get them,'" Delaney testified.

Special Agent Gerald Johnson of the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation, Fairview Heights, testified that he participated in the Jan. 22, 1973, raid on the Club J and seized a phone book which had Grzywacz' name and phone number in it. He said Maeras' name was not in the book, nor was Cooper's.

He testified that William Billeaud, head of the Southwestern Illinois Crime Commission, opposed contacting Maeras before the Club J raid, but that other members of the commission convinced him Maeras should be notified as a matter "of courtesy."

After a lunch break, Cook called William Brandt of Granite City, attorney who represented Grzywacz when the Internal Revenue Service first began to audit Grzywacz' income taxes. Brandt testified he had a letter prepared in his office authorizing Grzywacz to discuss with the IRS an investigation Grzywacz had conducted for the sheriff.

Brandt said he does not recall Maeras signing the letter, but said he then contacted Maeras and asked him to sign the letter, which was presented as evidence and which bears the former sheriff's signature.

Cook then said he had exhausted all the witnesses he had called for the day. Michael Costello of Springfield, attorney for Stoller, slowed to call witnesses he had ready.

Costello called John Cornwell, a former employee of Stoller. Grzywacz testified he has been a manager of a fund-raising office in Madison County during solicitations. He described bookkeeping methods used here and said the records of Stoller's business in the county seemed to be in order and balance, with the exception of a 1974 log book of receipts and expenditures, the log book has disappeared.

Cornwell estimated that Stoller's profit during activities for the deputy sheriff association was 15 to 20 percent and that cash and coins accounted for less than 10 percent of the intake of the fund-raising operation.

Weiland got Cornwell to admit he had failed to report some of his 1974 income to the IRS and had paid about $1,900 in unpaid taxes and about $950 in penalties to the IRS.

Marguerite Kragness testified she was an accountant for Stoller from June 1969 to May 1973. She said she prepared tax returns for Stoller for 1971 and 1972, and the IRS audited both returns and found them to be acceptable.

The defense paused at about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday and resumed Wednesday.

THEFT AT FROHARDT
The purse of Janet Werth, 3306 Wabash Ave., was stolen from the teachers' lounge at Frohardt School by a seven-year-old, who was later picked up by police.

The purse with $37 in bills, change and credit cards was returned.

DAV 53 elects

Laurence Lockhart has been elected commander of Quad-City Chapter 53, Disabled American Veterans.

Formal installation ceremonies and a dance are being arranged for a later date, it was announced this week.

Other officers elected at the February meeting at the DAV Club, 1417 Nineteenth St., include:

Laurence McGuire, senior vice-commander; Carl H. Lungwitz, Jr., or vice-commander; Robert Kennerly, treasurer; and James Miller, chaplain.

Chapter 53 has donated $300 to the Granite City Council of Senior Citizens. The funds will be used to purchase art and craft supplies, Lockhart said.

dence on length-wise cutting of slabs as a means of obtaining the flexibility in slab width necessary to meet the U.S. market demands.

Casting practices developed in a joint research program between Bethlehem, Inland, Republic and Youngstown and licensed overseas are helping a segment of the steel industry to obtain improved yields on slabs produced for exposed automotive applications.

As an illustration of how industry-wide statistics conceal the extremes, the 14 percent average figure for steel production which is continuously cast in the United States conceals the fact that at least one company, McLouth, produces 100 percent of its slabs by continuous casting. There also are many mini-mills in the U.S. which produce all of their billet requirements by continuous casting.

The listing of advanced process installations also includes two examples in the rolling mill area.

The first is National Steel's fully-continuous cold mill installation at Weirton, W. Va., which is only the second such facility in the world and contains significant additions over the first one at Nippon Kokan. The second is Bethlehem's 13-inch bar mill which recently began operation at the Lackawanna Plant in New York.

The impetus for innovation in steel products has come from both rapid technological changes in historic steel markets, and increasingly forceful marketing competition from such materials as aluminum, plastics and concrete.

U.S. Steel, Armco and National Steel have provided leadership in the commercial development of three different technologies for the production of one-side galvanized sheet for automotive bodies.

As long as the American steel industry is provided the opportunity to do so, it has the technical knowledge, willingness, and capability to lead the world in products produced and in the means for producing them.

School

To arrive at an "overall, sensible decision" board members agreed they want a public hearing to get ideas from parents and taxpayers.

Moore suggested that parents submit in writing their views on the dilemma, for board consideration.

Those parents unable to attend the meeting next Tuesday night are being encouraged to mail their comments to the Granite City Board of Education.

office, 20th and Adams streets, Moore added.

Residents attending the session will be recognized and given a five-minute period each to speak, thereby allowing as many as possible to present their views, it was noted.

The board members will not answer questions at a final disposition of the problem at that meeting, since it is set up strictly to collect viewpoints of parents and taxpayers, Moore added.

Supt. Davis summed up, "In combining the reports by school administrators, 'It becomes evident that reduction in expenditures ranging from $197,987 to $748,876 could be realized, if one or more buildings are phased out.' It appears, therefore, that this area that offers an opportunity to gain substantial reduction of expenditure and to still be able to offer the same programs."

Enjoy eclipse but be careful

By PAT FOLEY

Press-Record Staff Writer

On Monday, Feb. 26, shortly after 8 a.m. an eclipse of the sun will begin. An eclipse occurs when the moon passes directly between the earth and the sun, causing the shadow of the moon to pass across the earth's surface and totally blocking the sun's light for a brief period.

The point of maximum duration of Monday's eclipse will be near Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. At that point, the sun will be blocked by the moon for two minutes and 52 seconds.

For viewers in this area, only a 74 percent coverage will be observed. The path of totality, usually only 100 miles wide, stretches from the states of Washington and Oregon through northern Idaho and central Montana, cutting across the northwest corner of North Dakota and continuing through central Canada.

Even though there will be only 74 percent coverage of the sun, the eclipse will prove to be somewhat spectacular. The moon will appear to be a dark disk, especially for the young who have never viewed one.

Those who plan to view the eclipse are being urged to take the proper precautions to do so safely.

The intensity of the sun does not decrease during the eclipse, even though there is an obvious light fall-off during the maximum eclipse.

Even a brief glimpse of the sun can cause irreparable damage to one's eyes, and the damage is not immediately apparent.

NEVER LOOK AT THE SUN WITHOUT PROPER PROTECTION. It is being emphasized.

To make the filter easy to use, staple the two layers of film to a piece of cardboard after cutting a slit out of the center that is large enough to see through. Always hold the filter in front of the eyes before facing the sun.

Beginning shortly after 8 a.m. Monday, the moon will slowly appear to cover up greater and greater portions of the sun. At the point of 74 percent coverage, which will occur just after 10:30.

Then the lunar disk will begin to move away from the sun, revealing the whole solar disk once again.

Neutral density filters are a must when photographing the sun at any time.

A neutral density (ND) filter is used to decrease the sun's brightness so that viewing is possible and safe.

Much care must be taken when purchasing ND filters, as a total factor of 6.0 is needed to decrease the sun's brilliance enough to be photographed.

The two-layer home-made viewing filter is not usable for photographic purposes. Likewise, neutral density filters are definitely not suitable for viewing with the human eye.

Cameras, telescopes and binoculars should never be used alone to view the sun, as the optics focus the intensity of the sun making viewing with these instruments extremely dangerous.

The next total solar eclipse that will be able to be viewed from the North American continent will be in 2017.

For the most part, the two most important keys in viewing the sun, particularly during an eclipse.

1st GC National Bank cites healthy economy

The annual meeting of shareholders of the First Granite City National Bank was held Tuesday, with 101.67 percent of the total of 132,000 shares outstanding represented in person and by proxy.

Acting chairman of the meeting, Paul H. Lichtenberger, expressed appreciation on the part of management for the representation of shareholders in the voting.

Directors re-elected for the next year were Maria M.D. Earl, C. Buenger, Harley G. Davis, Wilbert Engleke, Joseph Glik, P. H. Lichtenberger, S. E. Pershall Jr., Carl A. Ranft, John W. Reese, James V. Stack, Nicholas P. Veeder and Melvin C. Wismeyer.

Chairman Lichtenberger reported to the shareholders on activities of the bank during the past year. He pointed out that the bank realized an increase of approximately 15 percent in net earnings for the year 1978, along with a year-end increase in total assets of approximately $4,000,000.

The main contributors to increased earnings were increased interest rates and increased loans, total loans having increased in excess of $6,000,000 during the year.

In commenting on the local economy as it relates to the bank for the coming year, Chairman Lichtenberger related, "Our local economy is healthy, with steel production and steel slitting operations seeing new highs. 'Our economy could, of course, be very much affected during the coming year by fuel supplies. And we could find fuel shortages counteracting any inflation as much or more than federal fiscal policies.'"

Lichtenberger said that "projections look good at this point for a prosperous and successful 1979."

Following the shareholders' meeting, the board of directors met to organize P. H. Lichtenberger was elected chairman of the board, S. E. Pershall Jr. was elected chairman of the executive committee.

Harold R. Fischer, S. E. Pershall Jr. and John Stolze were appointed to the advisory committee to the board of directors.

Among the officers appointed were Melvin C. Wismeyer, president; Charles L. Gavin, senior vice-president; and J. E. Kierski, secretary, board of directors; and Harley G. Davis, executive vice-president.

Vice-presidents appointed were John H. Tallgren, chief officer; I. J. Pittman, cashier and security officer; Howard L. Ebertson, Earl G. Dotzauer, comptroller; David V. Fox, Herbert S. Camren; and J. J. Conrad, director of data processing.

Assistant vice-presidents are Thomas E. Holloway and Raymond R. Burton. Auditor is Elmer I. Wortham.

Assistant cashiers are Edward Uherick, Merle W. Smith, and J. E. Kierski. Assistant treasurer is J. E. Kierski. Assistant director of data processing is Vernon Dale Smith.

Arrest near restaurant

Michael J. Spahak, 17, of Rural Route 1, Box 1079, Mitchell, was arrested outside the Ponderosa Steak House, 1511 Johnson Road, at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday and charged with battery and disorderly conduct.

The charges resulted from complaints signed by the father of a 15-year-old Granite City girl, who said Spahak had harassed the girl at work and made a threatening phone call to her home at 5:30 p.m. Monday.

The father alleged Spahak made threats against him and other family members when he refused to let the youth talk with his daughter.

Schalk allegedly called the girl Tuesday evening at work and told her to stay away from the restaurant and threatened to harm her.

Schalk was arrested and taken to the Granite City Jail. He is being held on a $10,000 bond.

steelmaking will allow Granite City Steel to maintain high rates of steel production with tighter control over particulate emissions, and to produce a better quality steel — especially in the low-carbon grades of electrical lamination steel.

The OBMS process produces a lower volume of fumes and dust during the period when oxygen is blown into the furnace to refine the steel, as compared to the conventional basic oxygen furnace (BOF) process now in use at Granite City Steel.

The principal change in the basic oxygen furnaces will involve installation of two large, vertical vessels to permit the injection of oil and oxygen for the pre-heating of scrap. Lime and other alloying elements also will be injected into the bottom of the vessel.

During the steelmaking cycle, oxygen also will be blown into the metal bath from above.

The revised furnace vessels also will be enclosed with hoods to reduce fugitive emissions of dust and the blast furnaces will be poured into the vessels.

The flexibility in the use of scrap in the furnaces will help Granite City Steel to maintain high levels of steel production during periods when one of its two blast furnaces, which provide the molten pig iron, is down for re-lining.

Also, the OBMS furnace allows improved yield of metallic materials into finished steel.

Engineering for the furnace project is being handled by Pennsylvania Engineering Corp. of Pittsburgh, and installation will be accomplished during regularly scheduled relining to prevent any loss of production at the plant.

The continuous slab caster will be housed in a new six-story structure to be built adjacent to the plant's basic oxygen steelmaking shop.

It will be equipped to produce nine-inch-thick slabs in a single strand which can vary in width from 48 inches to 84 inches, depending upon customer order requirements.

Slabs will be cut into 38-foot maximum lengths, and the wider slabs will be longitudinally arch-cut to narrower widths to fit the rolling schedule of Granite City Steel's hot strip mill.

Multiple ladles of 235 tons of steel will be cast continuously, one after the other, to maximize the efficiency of the facility.

According to Granite City Steel President James V. Stack, the continuous casting machine will greatly improve operating efficiency and product yield and save millions upon millions of BTUs used in conventional ingot-to-slab processing.

The continuous caster will pour slabs directly from the molten steel produced by the OBMS process.

The more uniform chemistry, better surface quality and superior metallurgical properties of continuously cast slabs are expected to improve productivity and enable Granite City Steel to be of greater service to customers in its marketing

Richard L. Ballew, who also is one of the top three on the police exam eligibility list, was scheduled to take the training but was hurt while on his current job.

Mayor Mike Sasyk reported to the aldermen that he was working with the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council to see whether a federal grant can be obtained to "straighten out the curve" at McRee Bridge Avenue and Edwardsville Road.

"There have been a lot of accidents on that curve I feel we will be able to make it less of a hazard if we can get help on financing," Mayor Sasyk said.

The city council approved a contract with the Illinois-American Water Company to have fire hydrants installed at the northwest corner of Alton Avenue and Central Street, northwest corner of Central and Troy streets, and northwest corner of Hildebrand and Central streets in the Cloverleaf and East Madison areas.

Condemnation proceedings were begun against property at 810 Webster St., Madison, owned by William Freeman.

He had a meeting at 10 a.m. Friday here with the chief engineer for the Illinois Terminal Railroad in reference to the crossings, which as everyone knows are in dangerous condition. Any of the aldermen wishing to attend are welcome," Sasyk said.

The Southwestern Illinois Planning Commission has recommended that steps be taken to improve coordination and communication between the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission and local elected officials in the operation of the Head Start program for pre-school children, Mayor Sasyk said. He added that he wants to be sure local educators and professionals are involved in order to provide a quality program for Madison children.

At the close of the meeting, Fifth Ward Alderman Donald Garrett objected to Dana Brown being invited to speak in Madison on an Explorer Post 104-fair night.

Garrett asserted that although Brown is known as an explorer and photographer, his views differ from those of many black people.

"I resent the invitation by the Explorer Post and I certainly resent his being in a public building," Garrett added. He referred to Brown's support of the present Rhodesian and South African governments.

A spokesman for the Explorers said Brown's invitation was extended by Boy Scout Council officers and that the speaker was not invited to present personal political views, but to talk on safaris and adventures.

Judy Evans in Miss Teen

Miss Judy Evans, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Evans, 3028 Ash Ave., has been selected as a finalist in the Illinois Miss Teen-U.S.A. pageant to be held in Oakbrook, Ill., June 29, 30 and July 1.

Active in scouting, she is a squad leader in Explorer Post 10-33, sponsored by the Granite City Police. She is also a Senior Girl Scout in Troop 328.

This will be the second time Miss Evans will compete in the statewide pageant, having represented Granite City in last year's program. She was awarded top honors in the essay portion of the competition.

During the pageant, the girls will be judged on scholastic and civic achievements, poise and personality. No swimsuit competition is held.

Each contestant must either give a two-minute speech or make a patriotic talent presentation. Also, each girl is asked to volunteer at least 12 hours of work to a worthwhile charity or civic organization.

Also selected as a finalist in this year's competition is Miss Deborah Kacera, also an active Explorer in Post 10-33.

Both girls are students at Granite City High School South.

Miss Evans is sponsored by William Frazier of State Farm Insurance and the Explorer post.

Some of her hobbies include writing short stories and essays, singing and acting.

The national pageant is slated for Albuquerque, N.M., in November.

ARREST MISSOURIAN

Larry L. Dunn, 18, Bonne Terre, Mo., was arrested at 22nd Street and Edison Avenue at 10:55 p.m. Monday and was charged with disorderly conduct. He allegedly drove his pickup truck to the Tinsley home in the 2100 block of Delmar Avenue, four times that evening and cursed occupants of the dwelling.

GERALDINE BOWER, a new assistant extension adviser in home economics for Madison County. She will work with Catherine Mauck and other county advisers in carrying out the county extension program. A native of Oregon, Geraldine Bower received her bachelor degree from the University of Utah, a master degree from Utah State and a Ph.D. degree from Michigan State. She had an extensive internship with the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program in Utah as well as an administrative internship with the Cooperative Extension Service in Missouri.

Fourteen accidents occurred in Granite City Tuesday, between 6:15 a.m. and 10:15 p.m., many involving mishaps on icy side streets which rain made even more hazardous.

At 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, Elaine Lance, 2809 Circle Drive, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center with an injury, after she lost control of her southbound auto on wet pavement and it struck an Illinois Power light standard on Route 203 just north of Pontoon Road. She was examined at the hospital and released.

At 2:35 p.m. Tuesday, Betty J. Robertson, 3408 Princeton Drive, was backing her auto from a driveway on State Street about 150 feet north of 30th Street when she struck a vehicle parked across the street.

Merrill L. Lindsey, 4025 Rode Ave., was seated in the parked auto.

Mrs. Robertson suffered an injury.

World day of prayer March 2 for Africa

Women all over the world will celebrate World Day of Prayer on Friday, March 2. This year's service, based on the theme "Spiritual Growth," was written by women in Africa, with emphasis on growth in knowledge, faith, hope and love in the Pan-African area.

Church Women United in the Quad-Cities are inviting all women to participate in the ecumenical service March 2.

A special daytime service is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, 20th Street and Delmar Avenue. The evening service will be held at the Nameoki United Methodist Church, 1900 Pontoon Road, at 7:30.

Mrs. Mary King, who lived for several years in Africa, will share a display of cultural items and discuss customs of Africa.

Presently, she is director of "The Well," located in Glen Carbon.

Mrs. Doris Edwards, chairman of World Day of Prayer, is planning several special events in connection with the ecumenical program and is urging everyone to attend one of the two services scheduled that day.

Bailey concludes long dairy service, joins treasurer staff

A Granite City resident of 33 years, Lloyd H. Bailey has retired. He had driven for local dairies for 32 years, going door to door, store to store, school to school, and cafe to restaurant.

Bailey was shop steward and committeeman for Teamsters Local 525 for 27 years.

He has been precinct committeeman for Precinct 9 for 14 years, and also alderman of the 5th Ward since April 1976.

Bailey served in the armed forces overseas for four years. Although he has retired from his life career, he is not stopping to relax. He plans to continue "to help the people in this city" as long as he is able.

He will begin working at the County Courthouse for Madison County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus this month. He and his wife, Josephine, have a son, Nathan, and daughters, Vicky and JoAnn (Bailey) Collins.

Mrs. Callahan lives with her daughters, Sharon, Cynthia and Audrey, at 2038 Thirteenth St., Granite City. She has accepted a position as utilization review and coding secretary at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She is shown receiving her diploma from Floyd Gassaway, president of the college.

NEW COLONEL

Lieutenant Colonel Peter M. Dunn, son of Mrs. D. A. Hutchings, 1618 Third St., Madison, has been selected for promotion to colonel in the Air Force. An air operations officer at Langley Air Force Base, Hampton, Va., he serves with a unit of the Tactical Air Command. The colonel, a 1953 graduate of Culver (Ind.) Military Academy, received his bachelor degree in physiology in 1957 from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, and earned a master degree in history in 1973 from the University of Nevada at Las Vegas, and a master degree in counseling in 1975 from Ball State University's extension at Upper Heyford, England.

Lions seeking used glasses, hearing aids

The Granite City Lions Club is asking the public for help by donating eyeglasses and hearing aids, no longer needed, to a special collection program.

The donated eyeglasses and hearing devices will be repaired and refashioned by the club, and then distributed to persons needing such aids who are unable to afford them. Jack Hill, project chairman, said.

The collection program started this week and will continue through March 9. Persons willing to donate eyeglasses and hearing aids, either those in disrepair or no longer used, are being asked to deposit them in special boxes set up at different locations in the Granite City area.

Collection points may be found at the Illinois Power Co. office, Niedringhaus and Delmar avenues, Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, First Granite City National Bank, American Heritage Bank and Colonial Bank of Granite City.

"We will appreciate everyone's help in this worthwhile program," Hill said.

Indicted on murder charge

Three persons, including Army Spec. 4 Michael E. Shane, 20, who is stationed at the Granite City Army Installation, were indicted Thursday by a St. Louis grand jury on capital murder charges.

Shane, Vicky R. Williams, 23, Overland, Mo., and Terry L. McIlroy, Bel-Ridge, Mo., were indicted in connection with the Feb. 4 shooting death of Col. Robert L. Williams, 27, Mrs. Williams' husband, at the Spirit of St. Louis Industrial Park, West St. Louis, where he was employed as a security guard.

It is alleged Mrs. Williams offered money and sexual favors in exchange for his killing. She was arrested Feb. 6 during visitation of her late husband at a funeral home.

Shane was arrested at the Granite City Army Installation, also on Feb. 6. Circuit Judge Richard Enright ordered the three held without bond in the St. Louis County Jail. If found guilty, they could become subject to Missouri's death penalty.

Davis—Unpopular step now can help maintain quality of schools

Report by B. J. Davis, superintendent of Granite City schools, to the Board of Education Tuesday night on cost reduction:

On Jan. 29, 1979, the board held a special meeting to review and discuss the financial condition of this district.

The general conclusion of the meeting was that the district, from the viewpoint of borrowing funds, is in an above-average position but does have a cash flow problem in its operating fund. This problem is most prevalent in the Education Fund.

This, in effect, means that the district must find ways to reduce its cash flow deficits. To reduce cash flow deficits, the district must expend less revenue in the future than it generates.

If this is done, it will entail additional borrowing for use in the operational funds and, thus, eventually imperil the favorable status of the district for borrowing money for emergencies or long-range expenditures.

It is at that point when schools, other taxing bodies, businesses and families are in a desperate state.

This district is not at that point, but will soon reach this position if cost reductions are not attained.

By taking needed — although not necessarily popular — action now, this district can and will continue to offer a wide range of quality programs in an attempt to meet the variety of pupil needs and abilities.

The board has indicated that, inasmuch as feasible, it does not wish to curtail programs. From an educational standpoint, this is commendable and much different from that undertaken by many other districts in cost reduction efforts.

It is also an indication that the cash flow problems have not reached a "point of no return" and, if corrected now, drastic cuts in programs would not go or some reduced in scope.

The decisions that will eventually be made will not be met with unanimous approval, no decision will be universally accepted. However, decisions must be made.

They will be made based on the best information available at this time. Events may change which, in retrospect, will make certain decisions seem wrong, but then hindsight has always allowed 20-20 vision.

With this in mind, the administration has reviewed the options available at this time to reduce expenditures while retaining programs.

As discussed at the Jan. 29 meeting, the area where the largest amount of money is expended is in costs for staff at all levels. To seek any significant reduction in expenditures will require reduction in staff.

The means of accomplishing this, without major program cuts, is to reduce the number of attendance centers and to consolidate the staff.

Decisions to close buildings are being made all across the state of Illinois and in other states. Community Unit is not unique in this matter.

Dr. Cronin, Illinois superintendent of schools, estimates that 75 to 100 schools in the state are scheduled for closing.

He has further estimated that if Governor Thompson's budget figure for education is adopted, the number of school closings will double.

Governor Thompson's budget request certainly makes it clear that schools cannot look to the state for any significant relief. It is, therefore, necessary to take appropriate steps now to insure the continued stability of this district.

With all of this in mind, the administration has studied the various logical options which we believe are available for board consideration.

1. Increase Class Sizes. This is feasible. Under the present policy IEC, the district may increase class sizes due to financial considerations.

Class sizes can be increased to slightly higher levels and thereby reduce some positions, as noted from last year's class size study. This year's study is now being conducted.

To increase these averages to between 25 and 30 in most areas would not be devastating.

2. Close Buildings. It is possible to close buildings and consolidate. If staff reductions are to be made with little effect on programs, closing buildings appears to be the method that should be used.

Buildings can be closed, and pupils and staff reassigned to other buildings without curtailing services. Closing buildings reduces staff at all levels — administrators, teachers, instructional support, and noncertificated staff.

In addition to reduction in certified salaries, fixed charges are also reduced, i.e., utilities and insurance.

3. Encourage Early Retirement. The district has already instituted this plan and, if it is used, savings will accrue.

4. Curtailing of Marginal Programs. There are certain programs in the district that are one-of-a-kind and marginal in nature.

In considering alternatives, it becomes rather evident that we can save programs and significantly reduce expenditures if the district chooses to close some of its facilities.

In conducting its study on which facilities should be considered, the administration looked at all levels, K-12.

It is the opinion of the administration that any one of three buildings, or any combination of these, facilities, should be the buildings considered for phasing out at this time. Others may have not been considered in the future. The three buildings are: McKinley, Stallings and Washington.

The following report from G. W. Brown, based on reports from other staff members, puts the matter in order. It should be noted that these figures are not intended to be exact but are certainly reasonable.

Frank Krause, in conjunction with several building-level administrators, has submitted a report on how any one or a combination of closings would be carried out.

In combining the two reports, it becomes evident that reduction in expenditures ranging from $197,997 to $748,876 could be realized, if one or more buildings are phased out. It appears, therefore, that this is an area that offers an opportunity to gain substantial reduction of expenditure and to still be able to offer the same programs.

It should be noted that class sizes will increase, but this will be true at all levels and in all schools. This increase will not be substantial, but will allow some additional reductions.

Finally, there will be recommendations on curtailment of certain low-pupil-high-cost programs or the number of electives in various departments. Examples that are or could be considered: Operating room technician, orchestra, selected foreign language offerings.

In the report section of the agenda, Ruby Heubner has a report on financial projections which has a bearing on this report.

Some teachers may be 'bumped' in jobs

Report by G. W. Brown, administrative assistant-personnel, regarding personnel savings and closing of schools, at Tuesday night's Granite City School Board meeting.

This report attempts to focus on "what happens to the current staff" if we should close three schools (McKinley, Stallings, Washington). I feel that Frank Krause report on "What happens to the students" quite accurate and gives a good overview of possible personnel savings.

As is my function, I have examined the personnel at each school in some detail and have attempted to make an analysis of the various support personnel that should be included with the classroom teachers. We have nurses, vocal music, remedial reading teachers, etc., who are tenured and need to be considered.

The data is, for the most part, self-explanatory. However, there are four major factors that need clarification.

1. I have made the assumption that all persons listed (including the principals) will "bump" younger person into dismissal.

Thus, dollar savings are a reduction of salaries of the teachers within the first four years of service. Board Policy "GBA Reduction in Force" should clarify the teacher "bump."

2. I have used assignments that exist in those three buildings. Each has nursing service, for example, but only one school has a nurse who is listed in that school.

There is a likelihood of more nursing, instrumental music, etc., being eliminated once a district-wide analysis is made.

3. As the number of dismissed certificated personnel increases, the dollar savings increase disproportionately. This is because of the certificated salary schedule and its increments.

We have, for example, 11 persons on the first step of the salary schedule and another 11 at the second.

To dismiss 30 persons means total salary of 11 at one salary, 11 at step two, which is a higher rate, and eight of the step three people added on.

Noncertificated salaries are more easily analyzed because each person in each category earns approximately the same.

4. Fringe benefits are analyzed as described. The dollar savings noted are, for the most part, accurate with allowances for some fringes that are not clearly fixed.

It is my hope that this data will give the Board of Education a clearer picture of the dollar savings available to them. I feel that my dollar estimates are conservative because, when the entire staff (district-wide) comes into play, there may well be more positions eliminated.

The Reduction in Force policy adopted June 1, 1976, states:

"If a reduction in the number of the tenured certificated staff of Community Unit School District No. 9 should become necessary, it shall be the policy of the Board of Education to make said reductions, where feasible, upon the basis of the employee's continuous years of service in the school district, the teacher certification laws of the state of Illinois, the policies of the Illinois Board of Education and its superintendent of public instruction where applicable, and the requirements of the North Central Association where applicable."

"In instances where it is not feasible to make necessary reductions as stated above, the Board of Education will advise the teachers' union in advance of the reduction so that it may have an opportunity to express its opinion and recommendations."

Switches career to engineering

Norman Lazaroff, a senior in metallurgical engineering at the University of Missouri-Rolla, will be launching his engineering career next summer.

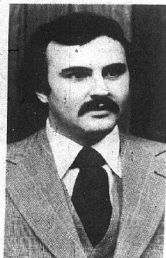

A Granite City high school graduate, he already has a bachelor of science degree in biology and chemistry from the University of Tennessee. He was taking a pre-med course, but medical school quotas were full.

Fellow employees at Granite City Steel, where he was working after he graduated from Tennessee, advised him to enter the engineering field. He went to UNR, where he has been able to further his interest in metals processing.

Engineers Week is being observed there Feb. 18-24. In addition to his academic work, Lazaroff is a member of Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary fraternity, Alpha Sigma Mu, metallurgy honorary, and the student branches of the American Foundrymen's Society (secretary-treasurer) and the Metallurgical Society (vice president).

He also plays golf and does some fishing when he finds the time.

As a senior, he is involved in the process of finding a job. He has talked with about 15 company representatives and has been on six interview trips to company headquarters.

"I have just about decided to add one more criteria to those I use in consideration of a job," he says. "After the past two winters, the company I will want to work for will have to be south of St. Louis."

As if two degrees weren't enough, he also is thinking about adding a master's degree in business administration after a year or two on the job.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lazaroff, 2315 Gary Ave., Granite City.

Lenten series at St. John United

St. John United Church of Christ will be having Wednesday evening Lenten services starting Ash Wednesday, Feb. 22. The initial worship service will include celebration of Holy Communion and will begin, as all of the other services, at 7:30 p.m.

Theme for this Lenten season will be "Close Encounters With God's Grace."

Through first-person sermons, we will examine the lives of those who were touched by Jesus' life, what that grace meant to them, and what it means to us today," a spokesman said.

"These services will be informal and will include special musical solos and hymn sings. Child care will be provided."

Teacher certification by colleges proposed

A more economical pupil transportation aid formula, desegregation assistance, and changes in the teacher certification program highlight the 1979 legislative package of the Illinois State Board of Education.

The board this month approved its 1979 legislative package.

Among the other major pieces of legislation the board recommended are extension of summer school reimbursement; special education building programs; consolidation of adult education programs; and inter-district incentive program.

LIMIT SUMMER SCHOOL REIMBURSEMENT — This bill would limit summer school reimbursement to programs serving severely and profoundly handicapped children. Since fiscal year 1977, reimbursement has been limited to these children because of the importance of insuring continued educational services during the summer.

State Board of Education Chairman Jack Wilkowsky points out that by "limiting the summer school program reimbursement, the state board has been able to meet the summer school needs for handicapped youngsters."

TEACHER CERTIFICATION APPROVAL — According to State Superintendent Joseph P. Cronin, candidates for certification would be required to complete a sequential program of teacher training approved by the state superintendent of education in consultation with the State Teacher Certification Board.

Also, the institution at which the candidate received training would have to recommend certification. Currently, over 60 Illinois colleges and universities collectively sponsor 1,000 approved preparation programs.

Assistant Superintendent for Professional Relations and Services Susan Bentz notes that "the certification procedure would be changed from transcript evaluation, except for those teachers already certified and who are seeking additional teaching certificates. These teachers would be allowed to apply for evaluation of their credentials directly to the state."

Under the recommended bill, colleges and universities offering approved teacher training programs would have to institute a grievance procedure.

Anyone denied institutional recommendation could avail themselves of the procedure.

According to Susan Bentz, "if the school would not change its decision, the candidate could appeal the case to the State Teacher Certification Board. It in turn would recommend final action to the state superintendent."

SPECIAL EDUCATION BUILDING PROGRAMS — Under this bill, the existing $100 million bond authority administered by the Capital Assistance Program for debt service would be reduced to $80 million.

The $10 million would be used to create a new bond authority for special education construction purposes. Participation would be limited to districts that previously participated in the special education building reimbursement program.

In addition, the bill amends The School Code and the Capital Assistance Program by: a) providing that no additional special education building reimbursements be made for the 1978-79 school year and thereafter, and (b) permitting districts qualifying for the new state special education construction grant and levying the tax — to issue bonds for construction purposes.

The bonds would help districts meet the local share in financing construction projects under the existing Capital Assistance Program.

According to Dr. Cronin, "Placing special education building programs under the Capital Assistance Program would insure that state funds for construction would be directly related to actual construction costs rather than personnel employed."

AN EFFICIENCY TRANSPORTATION FORMULA PROPOSAL — Under the proposal, a district would receive aid for all pupil transportation programs under one formula which would relate the costs of transportation to the type of district.

Aid would be distributed on the basis of efficiency of operation, comparing districts having similar programs.

In addition, the definition of allowable costs would be modified to place districts which own and operate their own transportation programs, and districts which contract for transportation services, on an equal basis for calculating their expenditures.

Finally, the cost of workmen's compensation insurance and first-year costs for computerized bus routing would be added to the definition of allowable costs.

DESEGREGATION ASSISTANCE — This bill would authorize the state board to reimburse school districts for costs associated with implementing desegregation plans.

The bill would recognize past fiscal year 1978 as current plans in reimbursing districts.

According to Dr. Cronin, the bill would make quality integrated education possible by "providing funds for magnet schools, alternative schools, classical schools and other educationally sound approaches to desegregation."

Cronin pointed out that "although the state requires school desegregation, the state has not shared some of the costs of compliance."

He continued, "Local districts would now receive reimbursement for monies spent on instructional services, staff training, instructional materials, administration, and community relations to make integration work."

Also included would be expenses for evaluation and local planning committees and councils. Transportation costs would not be part of the state.

INTER-DISTRICT INCENTIVE PROGRAM — Under this bill, the State Board of Education would award incentive grants to school districts for inter-district desegregation activities.

Each receiving district would be eligible to receive a $500 maximum, per transfer pupil, for improving educational services for the attendance centers receiving transfer students.

In addition, the state would pay any excess costs attributable to the incentive program, if the local district provides adequate support information.

The state would also pay the cost of transportation up to 20 percent of the total educational and administrative expenditures.

Other legislation recommended by the State Board would:

1. Increase certification fees for evaluation of credentials from $10 to $20.

2. Provide reimbursement to school districts for gifted programs on a quarterly rather than annual basis.

3. Authorize the state superintendent to require that regional superintendents conduct "only one annual census of handicapped children, on Dec. 1 each year.

4. Authorize the Regional Deaf-Blind Center to maintain the educational materials coordination unit, formerly located within the Illinois Office of Education.

5. Provide for adult education funds through a single funding source in a one-line-item budget. In addition, the population served would be identified and accounted to the respective source of funds.

Low-cost dental care for elderly

State Rep. Sam Wolf of Granite City has announced receipt of word from the Illinois Dental Society of a statewide denture referral service.

Wolf said the service is designed to provide quality denture care at reasonable cost for elderly persons on fixed incomes, plus low income individuals not eligible for Medicaid or private dental insurance.

Rep. Wolf said that in the denture referral service, private practicing dentists have agreed to provide quality dentures at a lower cost than their usual fee to referral patients. Such patients call a toll-free telephone number (1-800-252-2930) for entry into the program.

The individual is referred to a participating dentist in his area and is sent a simple financial form for completion. The patient then calls the dentist for an initial examination and diagnosis.

If the person is clinically eligible to receive a denture, the doctor and patient then arrive at a mutually acceptable fee for the service commensurate with the patient's ability to pay. If an agreement is not reached, the patient is referred back to the service for re-referral to another dentist.

"Under the program," Rep. Wolf said, "it is hoped that many senior citizens and persons with low incomes will avail themselves of this service and needed medical attention."

Rate hike sought for special phone services

In an effort to recover the costs of certain special service circuits which are used predominantly by business customers, Illinois Bell Telephone Co. has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission for permission to increase rates for these services.

The increase would result in higher monthly charges and some higher one-time charges for such services as alarm circuits, private voice and data communications circuits, teletypewriter circuits, answer service facilities and Telapak "bulk rate" circuit packages.

In addition, some rates associated with special service facilities would be lowered due to restructuring of the rate plans.

The last increase in special service lines within Illinois was filed in 1976 after completion of a detailed, two-year cost study. A $6 million increase in revenues for these services was approved in 1977.

"After a complete updating and review of this study, it is clear that because of higher cost due primarily to inflation — these services just aren't carrying their share of the costs," said a company spokesman.

The changes requested would result in an estimated $17,000,000-a-year increase in revenues from these special services and would affect about 70,000 business accounts.

None of the proposed increases were included in the company's last general rate request because the cost study for these special service lines was still in progress.

"For several years, we have been moving in the direction of realigning rates to more closely match the current costs of providing the various services," the spokesman said. "Cost study results in this particular case require us to seek higher rates for the special service lines."

The new rates requested by Illinois Bell are to take effect March 19 unless suspended by the commission for hearings.

ST. ELIZABETH SCHOOL eighth grade students discussing a study of the human heart with Keith Scannell, science teacher, during observance of Catholic Schools Week. "Next to the Faithful Catholic School" was the topic of week-long activities by faculty members and students of the school. The initial event was an open house attended by over 250 parents.

children and interested people, welcomed by Sister Margaret Mary, school principal. All classrooms and corridors were decorated with posters and murals depicting what Catholic schools mean to the children. On Friday evening of the week, parents and area residents visited the classrooms, followed by a special liturgy prepared by the students.

Officer Friendly game March 13

Many of the Big Red all-star basketball players from the St. Louis Football Cardinals, who have drawn capacity crowds each late winter when they appeared in Granite City, have agreed to return again for another contest, Officer Friendly.

Fred Hoffman announced this week.

The seventh annual Officer Friendly benefit basketball game will be staged this year on Tuesday, March 13, in Memorial Gymnasium on the campus of Granite City High School South.

Program ceremonies will start at 7:45 p.m., with the doors opening at 8:30 p.m. The contest will get under way at 9 o'clock.

The game will pit the Officer Friendly all-star team, consisting of Granite City policemen and firemen, against the Big Red all-stars.

In two previous meetings between the two squads, the Big Red players have emerged victorious.

This year, a big upset may be in the making, Officer Friendly commented Tuesday.

To insure a decisive victory for the home team, he said, he has been "recruiting very hard" and has been successful in securing the services of a professional athlete to bolster the police-firemen team.

Identity of the athlete, other than that he is widely known and respected for his ability in various sports, will remain a "well guarded secret until the night of the game," Officer Friendly said.

Proceeds from the game, as in past years, will be used to help sponsor youth basketball, hockey, football, baseball and soccer teams through the Officer Friendly program.

The funds also assist in purchasing equipment and providing registration fees for underprivileged children throughout the community, the officer said.

Co-sponsor of the benefit game is Madison County Federal Savings and Loan. Tickets costing $2, each admitting one adult or two children, may be obtained in advance from the Granite City Police Department, at any Granite City fire station or at Madison County Federal Savings and Loan.

Seats are not reserved. Tickets also may be secured at the door on the night of the contest, Officer Hoffman said.

School secretaries to disco and exercise

"Get With the Beat" will be the theme of the Granite City association of Educational Secretaries meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 26, at Marshall Grade School.

Program Chairman Nancy Rosales, secretary at Marshall School, said a special demonstration of physical exercises to music, plus the latest disco dances, will be featured.

Presenting the program will be Leigh Heller, physical education coordinator, assisted by Dot Bailey, PE teacher at Johnson School, and Susan Smith, Frohardt PE teacher.

The secretaries attending will be invited to participate in the dancing and exercise session, Mrs. Rosales said. Assistant hostesses will be Lucille Caban, Alice Campbell and Mildred Chandler, all secretaries at Granite City High School North.

CPR training for Explorers

Special training in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) for Explorers will be held from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m. Monday, Feb. 26, in the Weisman room on the first floor of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The training is being coordinated by Steve Missey, trauma coordinator and advisor to Explorer Post 1678.

Explorer posts wishing to participate are being asked to advise Missey as to the number of Explorers attending by phoning 798-3288 or contacting Pamela Forshoe, RN, at 421-8115.

Explorers completing the four-hour course will be CPR certified.

Carl Wimberly acting LaCrosse chancellor

W. Carl Wimberly, 54, vice-chancellor of the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse, has been named acting chancellor.

The former Granite Cityan was appointed by Edwin Young, president of the UW System, and the UW regents.

The regents acted after accepting the resignation of former chancellor Kenneth E. Lindner, 55, who has been appointed secretary of the state Department of Administration by Gov. Lee Dreyfus.

Dreyfus' resignation as chancellor of UW-Stevens Point also was accepted by the regents.

Wimberly, who has been officer-in-charge of UWL since Lindner resigned, has selected Robert C. Voight, 56, dean of the UWL College of Arts, Letters and Sciences, to fill the post of acting vice chancellor.

Wimberly and Voight will hold the two top campus positions until a new chancellor is named, probably next fall.

Wimberly is a 1941 graduate of Granite City High School.

Whenever a new chancellor is named, he or she will be the second since the changeover from president to chancellor form president in 1972 with consolidation of the Wisconsin State University and University of Wisconsin systems.

"According to Young, the UW system sets search and screen procedures for selection of a permanent replacement for Lindner.

Edward Hales, president of the regents, will appoint a special regent committee to assist Young in preparing a job description which takes into account the special characteristics of UWL.

Young will then appoint a search committee of between nine and 11 persons to be made up of a majority of faculty with representatives of the academic staff, students and administrators at UWL.

The search for chancellor should take several months before a recommendation is made to the Board of Regents for approval, Young said. Ultimately, a list of five names will be given to Young and the appointment will be made by the regents.

Wimberly, 3103 Glendale Ave., joined UWL in 1953 as a member of the political science department and was appointed dean of the College of Arts, Letters and Sciences in 1957. He was appointed vice chancellor in 1973.

Mitchell PTA honors candy sale winners

Mitchell School PTA has announced winners in a candy sale project, as well as reviewing fall and winter events and programs.

Cindy Singer, a fifth grade student, won the first prize, a portable television set. Sean Bain received a bicycle for second place, and an AM-FM radio was presented to Thomas Mattern, a kindergarten pupil, who finished third.

Miss Ruth Taylor, kindergarten teacher, and her students will present a program at the next PTA meeting, with Brownie Troop 581 presenting the colors, it was announced.

A review of activities included discussion on the November open house, a bake sale, and a Christmas bazaar booth sponsored by sixth grade students.

Proceeds from the projects will be used for the annual spring banquet for sixth graders.

The December PTA meeting featured a Christmas program given by the Sunshine Singers under the direction of Mrs. Beverlie Williams. Al Fuller, learning center teacher, spoke at the January session on the center's goals and success with school children.

Boothman is fined

Madison County Board Member Homer Boothman has pleaded guilty to an assault charge stemming from an April 8, 1978, incident when he allegedly tried to run over political adversary Joe Boyer in front of the State Park School.

Boothman was indicted by a Madison County grand jury in May on charges of reckless conduct, reckless driving, aggravated assault and assault. All of the charges but assault were dismissed when Boothman pleaded guilty to that charge.

Boothman was assessed a $300 fine, of which $90 was paid when he entered his pleas.

Boyer told deputies he was in front of the school April 8 talking to a friend in an auto parked alongside the road. Boothman's son passed and allegedly yelled at Boyer to move from the roadway. Boyer replied that he would not.

Homer Boothman, who had been sitting in the pickup's passenger seat, switched places with his son and reportedly drove the truck back toward Boyer at high speed. The mirror of the pickup struck Boyer before he could jump onto the hood of his friend's car.

Boothman was charged the day of the incident with battery and posted $100 cash bond after a short stay in the Madison County Jail.

Boyer and Boothman have been on opposite sides of the political fence for some time, voicing different opinions on Madison County and Namecki Township issues.

Math field day

Students from 40 area high schools will participate in the tenth annual Mathematics Field Day March 10 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The event is sponsored by the department of mathematics, statistics and computer science at the university.

Area high school math teachers may choose as many as four students from each grade level—sophomore, junior and senior—to participate in the competition.

Paul Phillips, associate professor at SIUE, said participants in the Math Field Day will take a uniform test and compete against other students at their grade level.

Competition is on both an individual and team basis. Recognition will be given to high-scoring individuals and teams.

Three traveling trophies, for the winning teams, will be presented to the respective school classes. All three trophies are provided to SIUE by Pi Mu Epsilon, an honorary math fraternity.

Bellefonte Township East High School won all three trophies at last year's field day.

The activities are free to the participating students, and no registration is necessary. For the convenience of the participants, the cafeteria in the University Center will be open.

The fourth annual meeting of the Southwestern Section of the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics (ICTM) and the Math Club of Greater St. Louis (MCGSL) will be held in conjunction with the field day.

Registration for the day will be held from 8 to 9 a.m., with sessions from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The meeting will feature 27 different sessions. Each will be 50 minutes in length.

except for eight which will be 80 minutes.

The noon luncheon will feature an address by Frank Allen of Elmhurst College, entitled "Let's Remember PE Factor." Allen is a former president of the ICTM and NCTM.

Jane Martin, Irene Jinks, Norman Young, Douglas Grouws and Thomas O'Brien are other Illinois and Missouri educators who will speak at the meeting.

Topics to be discussed include problem solving, aids for teaching the basics, remediation, enrichment and math anxiety.

Sessions covering grade levels K-3, 4-6, junior high, senior high and community college will be held in Classroom Building III, Peck Classroom Building and the Mississippi-Illinois Room of the University Center.

Advance registration for the professional meeting, which includes the luncheon ticket, is $7 for members and $8 for non-members.

Checks or money orders payable to SIUE are due by March 1 and may be sent to the Office of Conferences and Institutes, Box 36, SIUE, 62026.

Community support project

By CARLA LEHN
Community Support Project

People who have a history of psychiatric hospitalization in Madison County have encountered a major gap in community-based programming to meet their immediate environmental needs.

For those leaving a state-operated facility, there are basically three residential alternatives available. Many return directly to unhappy family situations from which they came. Others begin an unfamiliar and frightening independent living situation. And still others find themselves in a restrictive setting of long-term care facilities.

In short, individuals who need a living situation in a natural environment with varying degrees of supervision and/or support have not been accommodated.

Thus, there are numerous unnecessary — and costly — admissions and readmissions to state-operated programs and community hospitals. There are delays in discharges while seeking the best compromise among existing inappropriate resources, and the consumer's right to be served in the least restrictive environment is ignored.

A new program of the Mental Health Clinic in Granite City seeks to remedy this situation. The Community Support Project (CSP) is a mental health program with a housing component, designed for individuals with a history of psychiatric hospitalizations.

It operates in this way: The Mental Health Clinic rents apartments and places carefully chosen individuals in the apartments.

Each individual is assigned a mental health worker to act as advocate with community agencies and to be available if problems arise on a 24-hour basis.

Each person is also involved in a carefully arranged plan for involvement in other clinic and community activities, including therapy, job training and social activities.

Learning about — and assuming responsibilities of — independent living such as banking, bill-paying and living with others is also considered a part of the Community Support Project.

This program has been long awaited by the Mental Health Clinic and was just recently made available by Title XX monies. It is one of only a few programs like it in the state.

Because there are so many people who need exactly this kind of service, there is already a long waiting list. Two of the major problems encountered by the program so far have been:

1. An inability to find enough apartments to rent.

2. Once apartments are found, lack of funds to furnish them with necessary household items.

Landlords should know that renting to the clinic means a guaranteed check every month, as well as supervision of the tenant and 24-hour availability of staff if needed.

It should be stressed again that people who are chosen to participate in this program have been carefully selected for their reliability and willingness to cooperate.

Landlords who are interested in making this a truly community project are asked to contact Carla Lehn at 877-4220.

Those who have no property to rent but would like to make a tax deductible contribution of bedding, household goods or food may also contact me at the above number.

Royce Realty has top office

At a Century 21 sales rally held at Musial and Biggie's in St. Louis, Century 21 Royce Realty and two of its associates were honored for achievements earned in January.

Associates Harriet Byers and Richard Jasudowicz were awarded top salesperson, top unit of sales, top volume sales and 21 Club memberships for closing over $450,000 each in one month.

Bernard Royce, broker, and Jerry Braswell, sales manager of Royce Realty, received honors for top office in the eastern district, which contains over 70 offices in Missouri and Illinois, due to the closing of over $1,487,000 in January.

REALTORS HONORED. Century 21

Royce Realty has been honored as top office in the district. Special honors went to (left to right) Jerry Braswell, Harriet Byers, Bernard Royce and Richard Jasudowicz.

Award to Miss Webb

Laurie Lynn Webb, a GCHS North senior, has received a scholarship and nomination for a national scholarship from the Illinois Association of Educational Secretaries. A $500 IAES scholarship went to Miss Webb, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Webb, 4053 Stearns Ave.

Through the awarding of the Illinois scholarship, she is eligible for nomination for the Marion T. Wood scholarship awarded by the National Association of Educational Secretaries.

To become eligible for the state scholarship, applicants had to apply for admission in a post-high school program and plan to enter the secretarial profession, preferably as an educational secretary. Miss Webb not only met these requirements, but fulfilled all other qualifications for qualification areas for a business education major, she is taught by Mrs. Betty Dumont.

A business education major, she is taught by Mrs. Betty Dumont. She is captain of the Steel City Belles pom-pom squad, member of the National Honor Society, secretary of the Student Council, secretary of the Silver Spirit pep club, member of the Future Secretaries and secretary of the senior class.

Selling city's obsolete trucks

Twelve Granite City Street Department obsolete trucks are to be sold through competitive bidding, City Council members decided Tuesday night on the recommendation of Street Superintendent Portel.

On the list are 1964 Ford, 1966 Dodge and 1966 Dodge dump trucks; 1957 and 1961 International trucks; two 1983 Chevy dump trucks; a 1980 Chevy 3-ton truck; a 1964 Chevy 1/2-ton truck; an old No. 12 International junk truck; a 1972 home-made pickup truck; and an ancient ladder-wagon fire truck.

$50,000 bond set on suspect

Cornelius "Tootie" Bell, 26, of 131 Grenzer Homes, Madison, was taken to the Madison County jail at 6:15 a.m. Wednesday pending a posting of a $50,000 bond on a charge of armed robbery.

Bell allegedly used a .22-caliber pistol at 9:20 p.m. Friday to rob a man behind Garrett's Tavern, 337 Weaver St., Venice, and took approximately $25.

Bell then allegedly left the scene in an auto. He was arrested at 9:45 p.m. Friday by Venice police when seen playing pool in a tavern at 801 Jackson St.

Mrs. Humphrey dies at 76

Mrs. Eva Alma (Dennis) Humphrey, 76, of 2035 Sixth St., Madison, a 21-year Quaker resident, died at 12:25 p.m. Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

She had been ill for two years and was hospitalized for four days. Mrs. Humphrey was a member of Trinity Tabernacle Church in Madison. Her husband, Walter Humphrey, died in 1956.

Survivors includes three sons, Earl C. Humphrey, Madison, Donald E. Humphrey, Venice, and Billy R. Humphrey of Orlando, Fla.; three daughters, Mrs. James (Mary) Steel and Mrs. Merrill (Jenny) Huey, both of Madison, and Mrs. Eugene (Betty) Forshaw of Granite City; two brothers, John Dennis, Belleville, and Aubrey Dennis, Chaffee, Mo.; two sisters, Mrs. Alta Davis and Mrs. Roy (Mildred) Bell, both of Party injury, arrests

A late-night party led to two arrests and the injury of William A. Brown, 11 Snowbird Lane, who walked into Granite City police headquarters at 1:45 a.m. Tuesday. Bleeding profusely from the head, he reported being beaten at the party.

Brown, 24, said he was at a home in the 2100 block of Adams Street where two young women live. Four other youths also were present.

Dennis W. Simpson, 17, of 2943 Oregon Ave., allegedly took exception to Brown talking with a young woman and struck Brown on the head with his fists.

Simpson was wearing a large turquoise ring on his hand, it was contended. Stephen P. Waltemate, 17, of 212 Wilson Park Lane, allegedly pulled a knife with a large blade from a pocket, held it in front of Brown's face and threatened to cut his throat.

When Brown attempted to leave the house, he said, Simpson and Waltemate allegedly refused to leave with them and a struggle ensued.

A knife was taken from the pocket of one man and a ring, covered with blood, was confiscated from another.

Both were wearing bloodstained shirts at the time of their arrest, officers alleged.

Waltemate was charged with aggravated assault and resisting arrest.

He appeared before a judge Tuesday. Bond was set at $202 cash and he was ordered held for the Department of Corrections.

Simpson, charged with resisting arrest and battery, appeared Tuesday morning and pleaded innocent. He requested a jury trial, and a public defender was appointed.

A recognition bond was denied by the judge and a mittimus was issued.

Later Tuesday, a third charge — possession of cannabis — was filed against Simpson, resulting from the disturbance. He allegedly was seen by officers handing a bag containing marijuana cigarettes to a woman in the home. The woman gave the bag to a police officer.

Simpson was released at 4:50 p.m. Tuesday on payment of the mittimus order, which required $354 cash.

A 16-year-old youth, also at the party, was picked up by police while walking near the Adams Street address. He was charged with curfew violation and was released to a relative on a notice to appear.

HURT IN FALL ON ICE

Gerald A. Schroeder, 25, of 2425 Logan Ave., was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 4:25 p.m. Monday after he fell on ice in an alley in the 4100 block of Kirkpatrick Street and apparently struck his head on a metal angle iron around trash cans. He was admitted overnight for observation to the hospital and was released Tuesday.

DeMolay sweetheart dance

At a meeting Tuesday night following the annual chili supper of the James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolay, Paul Clinard, master councilor, announced completed plans for the chapter's sweetheart dance to be held Sunday evening, starting at 8:30.

Music will be by "The Paragon," and the 1976 sweetheart will be crowned by Mrs. Lisa Jones, the former Miss Lisa Smith.

The sweetheart entrants in the order of nomination are: Miss Tracy Dimock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Watts; Miss Cindy Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baker.

Area DeMolay chapters, Job's Daughters bethehs, and Rainbow for Girls chapters and their dates have been invited.

In closing the meeting, Clinard expressed appreciation to the Mothers Club, DeMolays, advisers, friends and the general public for support in making the 1979 chili supper a success; 1,066 were served during the day, with 472 being carryouts.

Order 10 new fire hydrants

With the fire chief and the Fire and Water Committee recommending that additional fire hydrants be installed, Granite City aldermen Tuesday night instructed and authorized the Illinois-American Water Co. to place water main extensions and fire hydrants at 12th and Meridian, at a point 500 feet west of Route 3 on Pontoon Road, and at Clark and Mercer Drive from Primrose and Clark avenues.

In addition, hydrants were ordered at 3154 Yale (north side), 200 feet south of Keith Drive on Westmoreland, 2800 Saratoga (east side), 2909 National Avenue (west side), 4009 Sara Avenue (west side), 26th and Center streets, and Frontenac and Franklin Avenue.

Reginald Simmons, 54, dies

Reginald "Rex" Simmons, 54, of 3127 Maryville Road, Ill. for two years, died at 5:30 a.m. Tuesday at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, where he had been a patient for one week.

He was born in Eldorado, Ill., and had resided in Granite City from 1941 to 1968.

Mr. Simmons was transferred as an employee of civil service to Dayton, Ohio, in 1968 and moved back to this area in November 1978.

Mr. Simmons was a member of the Baptist faith. He served as a paratrooper with the U.S. Army during World War II.

Survivors includes his wife, Mrs. Gloria Simmons; one daughter, Miss Debra Simmons, a student at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kan.; and one brother, Sedic Simmons of Manassas, Va.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column. Services were conducted here today.

Lessons of Watergate to be told

Bob Woodward, one of the Washington Post reporters who brought the Watergate scandal to America's attention, and the featured speaker Wednesday, Feb. 28, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will discuss not only the Watergate story, but lessons to be learned from his experiences—related to his profession and society at large.

He was thrust into one of the nation's most dramatic political scandals after only nine months as a Post reporter. He had returned to the newspaper after failing a two-week trial the year before.

"They told me I was just awful," Woodward said. "They told me to get some experience and return in a year." He got that experience at the Montgomery County Sentinel, a Maryland weekly, where his writing may not have been the best "but I was a good fast reporter and I did more stories than anyone else."

Woodward was assigned the police beat on his return to the Post and was one of eight reporters who produced the original Watergate break-in story for the paper. When potential implications of the case were recognized by the editors, they permanently assigned Woodward and Carl Bernstein to the Watergate story. Bernstein, who had six more years of experience, was the better writer; Woodward was a smooth, subtle interrogator with a "physician's practice bedside manner," according to a colleague.

The team relentlessly pursued the case from the break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in 1972 to the resignation of President Richard M. Nixon in 1974.

The resignation brought no feelings of triumph to the reporters.

"If anything, we felt our role had been blown out of proportion," Woodward said, as quoted in "A Portrait of All the President's Men."

"I suppose we were a contributing factor, but we didn't bring down the president. I think there must be an adversary situation in any case of investigative reporting."

"They kept saying we were liars. We had to prove them wrong. The only way we could do it was with solid facts."

The pursuit of these facts brought the Pulitzer Prize to the Washington Post in 1973 and numerous other journalism awards to the reporters. Two books, "All the President's Men" and "The Final Days," written from the months of work done by Woodward and Bernstein.

In the film version of "All the President's Men," Woodward, a husky man of average height with dark hair and eyes, was portrayed by Robert Redford. "I think it took tremendous guts on Redford's part to play me," the reporter said. "I'm not the sort of character you ordinarily see in the movies."

Woodward returned to the Washington Post in September 1975 as one of two full-time investigative reporters and has written several stories which have led to federal investigations. The reporter dislikes his celebrity status and regularly turns down requests for interviews and personal appearances.

"As soon as someone becomes a celebrity, the person becomes less useful to the newspaper," he has said. "It gives you too much independence from the institution and breaks down the hierarchy. That institutional support is important for me. I operate best in an institutional framework."

Woodward will speak in SIUE's Meridian Hall in the University Center, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $2 for SIUE students and $4 for nonstudents.

The lecture is being sponsored by the University Center Board in conjunction with National Town Meeting and the Society of Professional Journalists.

Visible progress by Madison County Review Board in equalizing the 24 townships' assessment averages

The taxing and assessing process in Illinois is so complicated these days that it apparently is possible to fan taxpayer frustrations into heated rage over procedures being followed by the Madison County Board of Review, even though critics have been revealing only a selected part of the picture.

This is unfortunate because, while emotions have their proper place, facts ought to remain uppermost. Robert Harris of Granite City, a member of the three-man Review Board, makes a persuasive argument that the board has been doing many responsible things and has been subjected to criticism based on 1979 property values in discussions of 1978 taxes for which values were determined in 1977 or earlier.

Just as inflation understandably frightens persons on fixed incomes, it has had a devastating effect on property owners, sending some sale prices soaring and catching everyone in the upward spiral, since assessments are supposed to always be at one-third of full value as determined by sales patterns. Inflation's tornadoic winds also are blowing strongly on those who must administer the fast-changing assessment scene.

Harris is particularly unhappy about the name-calling we've not reprieved under the least offensive of the descriptive words shouted at him at some public meetings — because most of it is coming from eastern rural areas where, in his opinion, there has been the lowest level of adherence to state-prescribed valuation standards.

As he sees it, gigantic progress has been made in achieving the ideal of accurate, fair assessed valuation. Discussion such factors as the coefficient of dispersion — uniformity between township averages within the county — he says that the Review Board's multipliers have "reduced the differences in township average assessment levels to near zero, a remarkable degree of uniformity that places Madison County in compliance with statutory requirements and results in improved equity for taxpayers."

"Without inter-township uniformity, the tax burdens for districts that overlap township lines wouldn't be distributed fairly. In 1975, for example, before our township equalization program began, residents in some areas were paying more for their fair share of county taxes. With 33 1/3 percent as the ideal, townships were being assessed as low as 25 percent and as high as 47 percent."

"The inter-township coefficient of dispersion was determined to be 12 percent. For the 1976 assessment year, values showed 13 percent dispersion, improved to 11 percent by assessors and the supervisor of assessments and to 10 percent by the Board of Review."

In 1977, these figures were 8 percent, 9 percent and 4 of 1 percent. For the 1978 tax year, the coefficient was 2 percent before changes, 5 percent after changes and zero after Board of Review actions, with all townships averaging 3 1/3 percent of actual value.

"Certificates of error totaling 1,600 in June, July and August 1978 were less than one percent of the total number of assessments, which include 140,000 parcels of real estate and over 100,000 titles of personal property."

"Rather than recklessly slashing assessments, we have increased personal property valuations in the county from $204,440,145 in 1975 to $207,053,055 in 1976, $215,520,360 in 1977 and $225,741,830 in 1978, including a 1975-78 boost in corporate and personal property from $128,729,720 to $153,167,630."

"Regarding real estate, it is estimated that residents of townships with above-average assessments paid $250,000 to $300,000 more than their fair share of county taxes, while residents of under-assessed townships underpaid by an equal amount. Including taxes paid to overlapping school districts, the dollar amount of overpayments and underpayments was much higher."

"These inequities were eliminated by the Board of Review multipliers. Statistics derived from sales ratio studies clearly show the improvement in inter-township uniformity."

"Two cautionary remarks are necessary. First, the elimination of inter-township differences in the 1978 tax year, 1979 collection, doesn't mean the equalization is finished. Differing rates of inflation in various townships will produce future discrepancies unless equalization is performed yearly."

"Second, equalization of township average assessment levels isn't designed to — and won't — remove assessment inequities within a township. This can only be accomplished by parcel-to-parcel reassessment, a task that rests primarily with township assessors and isn't within the Review Board's powers or capabilities. In the multi-level assessment system, officials at each level must fulfill their responsibilities if complete equity is to be achieved."

Bulk storage at Depot for clothing, furniture exchange

The U.S. Army St. Louis Area Support Center (SLASC) in Granite City, near 1,300 square feet of storage space for use by the Tri-City Area United Way Community Service, Clothing and Household Goods Exchange Center, serving Venice, Madison, Pontoon Beach, Mitchell, Granite City and nearby unincorporated Madison County areas.

TCAUW President Paul J. Costello said, "This exceptionally fine bulk storage location will relieve pressure for storage which was rapidly building up at the location on Kate Street, and may help stimulate collection of additional reusable items."

"The state of storage, now permanently relieved by SLASC's help, was lessened to a high degree through no-cost temporary storage facilities provided by G. H. Sternberg & Co. and others."

"Without their help, handling the collection and storage of clothing and other household items would have been impossible," he said.

"Acknowledgement of efforts by Brig. Gen. Aaron L. Lilley Jr., deputy commander, U.S. Army Troop Support and Aviation Material Readiness Command (TSARCOM), the local U.S. Army St. Louis Area Support Center's outgoing commander, Lt. Col. James W. Howard, incoming commander, Major James W. Lightfoot and administrative officer Tommy C. Vaughn is very much in order."

"Their support in securing this storage for the local United Way Community Service Center is vital to its growth and continuation."

"No direct service or distribution will be available from the SLASC location, as it will be used for bulk storage purposes only."

Individuals needing help or wishing to dispose of good, usable items which could be shared with others in need may call the United Way at 877-6780, 877-1184, 452-7184 or 876-2383 for information.

On Feb. 27 and 28, coordinated Youth Services will provide a truck and a driver during the first hours, to pick up items deposited at Coolidge Jr. High. A container will be placed in the school Monday, Feb. 26, for early dropoffs.

News notes

Government spending limits tied to the rise in city income were recommended Wednesday by the Governor's Advisory Commission on Taxes. Gov. James Thompson said he isn't yet ready to select specific proposals from the seven-month study.

There were no withdrawals as the period ended Tuesday evening for the Madison and Madison city elections April 17.

Optimist International President Dudley Williams of San Diego will address the Illinois District Optimists Saturday at the Collinsville Holiday Inn.

Mike Ropac is one of five new owners of the former Steel Package Plant, along with Bob Belvoir, Walter Aerne, Sam Sartin and William Brandt.

Pontoon County annexation activities are unnecessary to avoid Granite City annexation in Nameki Township areas where the property owners want to remain unincorporated, Supervisor Harold Davis said Wednesday. He voiced concern that some settler signers may not realize they are asking to become a part of the village.

Equipping the garage will cost about $200,000, the mechanic's salary will be $15,000 per year. A manpower employee will aid the mechanic and a secretary and journeyman may be hired in the future, if necessary.

Ministers at Gospel Mission

The Rev. John Piers, who is recuperating from an illness and a period of hospitalization, will be the guest speaker at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Gospel Mission, 2014 E. 20th St.

At tonight's service at 7 o'clock, the Rev. Charles Williams, superintendent of the Sunshine Mission in St. Louis, will be guest minister.

The public is being invited to attend all services at the mission, Mrs. Bethel J. Davis, superintendent, said.

BIOLOGY OPEN HOUSE FOR AREA STUDENTS

Stoller's fund-raising defended

The jury in federal court at Alton will be asked tomorrow afternoon to deliberate the charges against former Madison County Sheriff John Maeras, Capt. John Cooper of the sheriff's department, and raiser Leland Stoller and Lee Stoller Enterprises, Inc.

"The defense rested its case yesterday and today was reserved for attorneys and U.S. District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman to argue what instructions should be given the jury tomorrow before it begins its deliberations."

Closing arguments from the attorneys in the case will begin at 10 a.m. tomorrow, after which Judge Ackerman will issue lengthy instructions to the jury before the jurors retire for their deliberations.

Both Maeras and Stoller took the witness stand this morning for the defense. Cooper's attorney, H. Carl Runge, decided not to put Cooper up for testimony, saying Cooper's statement to the Internal Revenue Service are in evidence and should be sufficient for his defense.

Maeras' testimony appears elsewhere in today's Press-Record. Stoller was the primary witness yesterday and gave lengthy testimony on the operations and record-keeping of his company, which solicited donations and raised funds for the Madison County Deputy Sheriffs' Association and other organizations in other areas.

Stoller testified he is licensed with Illinois and other states as a professional fundraiser and is married to Christy Lane, a professional singer and songwriter, who said she had four sons in the 10 of country music in the past few years.

He said that in early 1970, he called the Madison County Sheriff's Department, asked if they had a deputy association and was referred to Cooper, who was president of the association. Assistant U.S. Attorney Cass Weiland said some witnesses recalled the deputy association was not formed to be donated to those needing them.

The family was informed Saturday that Mr. Lucas had died at 3:30 a.m. Friday, who died Feb. 16 at Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

Burial was in the Bethany Cemetery at Geraldston, Tenn.

Mr. Lucas was born in Greenville and had lived here for the past 16 years.

Mr. Lucas apparently died from a gunshot wound of the mouth, suffered at 8:50 p.m. Feb. 15 in the 2900 block of Buxton Avenue.

The time of death was given originally as 12:45 a.m. Friday. But when Mr. Lucas' body was released to a mortuary on Saturday, his family was told that death had occurred eight hours later, or about 9:15 a.m. Friday.

Members of the family at the St. Louis hospital had been advised that Mr. Lucas died at 12:45 a.m. Friday, and none of the family was told any differently until Saturday, a relative said.

An aunt of the dead man who lives in Granite City said Mr. Lucas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allie (Myrtle) Lucas of Greenville, are "extremely upset" because the family was not notified that Mr. Lucas still was alive later than 12:45 a.m.

The relative said Mr. Lucas' family was told Mr. Lucas' body was removed to the hospital after death was pronounced, as his parents had given permission for vital organs to be donated to those needing them.

10,827 BAC students

Belleville Area College has enrolled more than 10,000 students for the third consecutive semester, Vincent Margerum, director of admissions, said this week.

Tenth-day enrollment figures for the spring 1979 semester show 10,827 students enrolled, an increase of 775 over the 1978 spring enrollment. Fall enrollment exceeded the previous fall's registration by almost 1,000 students.

Despite the increase in actual students, fewer credit hours are being taken during the spring semester.

A decline of less than 1 percent has been experienced in the number of credits enrolled for, and this continues a trend that began in the fall when a 14 percent headcount increase resulted in only about a three percent increase in credit hours.

Belleville Area College is one of only a handful of community colleges across the state that is continuing to experience large increases in enrollment. Fall figures showed an overall six percent decrease in students enrolled in the 39 community college districts.

College officials attribute the anomaly of increasing numbers of students with concurrent decreases in credits to improved job opportunities in this area. Normally, when employment opportunities are good, enrollment in community colleges has dropped, officials said.

Margerum concludes, "Apparently students are discovering that it is advantageous to continue taking a course or two each semester even if they are working full time."

Vandals damage Amco building

Walter Aerne, owner of Amco Plumbing and Heating Co., 2401 Delmar Ave., reported Monday that several windows on the north side of the building had been broken, apparently by pellets fired from a BB gun. The vandals also smashed an electric meter on an exterior wall and threw eggs against the wall.

In the past three weeks, 27 glass blocks have been smashed by vandals. Numerous holes were gouged in lava stonework at the front of the building and eight overhead spotlights were broken.

Single-parent talks planned

A single-parent group will begin meeting here in March.

Sandy Becker-Warden comments, "The single-parent family is becoming increasingly more predominant. Statistics show that one family in every six is a one-parent family."

"In a society geared toward the traditional two-parent family, a single parent can feel particularly isolated."

"Children need not suffer in a single-parent home. However, single parents' problems sometimes seem worse because the parent is alone.

"Some problems make it more difficult to raise children. These include bitterness, loneliness, poverty and being unsure about raising children without help."

"For these and other reasons, single parents sometimes cling to their children. This denies children the chance to become free from the parent."

"A good parent, single or with a partner, is a confident human being. By sharing common experiences and feelings with other single parents, one can derive a sense of self-reliance and confidence in himself or herself."

"A six-to-eight week single-parent group, where parents can learn about child management as well as have the opportunity to share experiences and offer support of each other, is being offered in the Granite City community. There also will be some group experience for the children of parents who are attending.

"If you are a single parent and would like to join us, please contact Sandy Becker-Warden or Susan Oldham at 877-420 before Feb. 28."

A bright yellow 1968 Camaro convertible, belonging to Bill Stearns, 2589 Spalding Ave., was stolen from the Pina Service Station, Nameoki Road and Venice Avenue, it was reported Monday.

Explorer leadership development

A leadership development seminar for Explorer post officers and advisers will be held Saturday in the Madison Memorial Center from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Presentations and discussions will be held on such topics as: program development, leadership skills, fund-raising, national Explorer activities, area conferences, duties of officers, and relationships between advisers and members.

Those assisting with the program include: William Fox, adviser to the Cahokia Mound Council Explorer Presidents Association; Kevin Sabo, newly-elected Area Three Explorer chairman; Richard Werthe, president of Explorer Post 10-33; Keith Sanders, president of Explorer Post 10-4; Conrad Fetsch, council professional adviser to the Exploring committee, and Leo Schiermer, president of the Cahokia Mound Council and chairman of the council Exploring committee.

The Exploring membership increased by 24 percent in 1978 over 1977 and, according to Strange, Explorer membership is expected to show an even bigger increase in 1979.

PASSENGER HURT ON FEHLING ROAD

A collision on Fehling Road, just west of Nameoki Road, at 9:25 p.m. Monday involved vehicles operated by Ronald F. Landman, 2413 Kilmer Drive, and Steven J. Wooley, Edwardsville.

Mrs. Annette Landman of the Kilmer address, a passenger in the Landman auto which was halted for traffic, suffered minor injuries.

UNDERCOATING—RALPH'S TEXACO

James 5:15... "And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him."

With the fact of so much human suffering around us today, and so much sin I feel we should give particular attention to this verse.

God is a miracle working God. There is nothing impossible with Him. He can and does save the sick and raise them up. He can and does forgive our sins. This is not a hard thing with Him.

Any miracle you receive hinges on the Prayer of faith. If you believe when you pray, if you trust when you pray, then you are going to receive from God. The Word of God cannot be wrong. Ask why you shall receive.

Why don't you pray that prayer of faith today?

Drusilla Andrews fetes high school students

The Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its annual George Washington tea Sunday in the parlor of the Niedringhaus, United Methodist Church. Guests of honor were the "good citizens" of the four high schools. They were Miss Dana Buer from Granite City North; Miss Nanette Henry from Venice High School; Miss Kim Johnson from Granite City South; and Miss Jeanne Palm from Madison High. The girls were chosen by school personnel from their respective senior classes as best exemplifying the qualities of leadership, dependability, service, and patriotism.

Mrs. Emma Schoen, regent, welcomed the members and guests and led the group in the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Mrs. JoAnn Burkley read the month's message from the national regent of the DAR which emphasized the importance of February as American History month.

Mrs. Ruth McCarty, vice regent, introduced the participants in the afternoon's program on patriotic music. The narrator of the program was Mrs. Madge Hansen, the guest soloist was Mrs. Lois Ann Bilbrey, and the accompanist was Mrs. Barbara Williams.

Mrs. Bilbrey's solos included "Lift Every Voice and Sing," "This Is My Country," and "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor." She and Mrs. Hansen presented a duet of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." The audience joined with Mrs. Bilbrey on parts of "God Bless America" and "This Land Is Your Land." The entire group sang "Yankee Doodle," "America the Beautiful," and "You're a Grand Old Flag."

After the program, Mrs. Janet Wilson, state DAR membership chairman, spoke on the early beginnings of the "Good Citizens" program. It started in 1934 through a resolution passed by the U.S. Congress and adopted its present form in 1962. She introduced each of the girls and presented them with pins and copies of the book, "The Washington Landmark."

Dana Buer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Buer of Rural Route One, Granite City. During her years at Granite City North she has received a varsity letter in track, a letter as a varsity cheerleader, and a letter as underclassman cheerleader. She was a wrestling queen and was a member of the homecoming court, and is a four-year member of the Silver Spirit pep club and a member of Quill and Scroll. She is senior editor of the yearbook and is second vice president of the Student Council in which she has participated all four years.

Dana is especially interested in playing the piano and reading as well as jogging and playing tennis. Through her church youth fellowship group she worked one summer in Colorado on an immigration farm helping with small children. She has also participated in the out-of-schools' day and Thanksgiving-Christmas season. She plans to attend

Illinois State University at the field of marketing.

Nanette Henry is the daughter of Leroy and Annie Henry, 112 Venice Homes, Venice. During her four years at Venice High she has been a member of the FHA, serving as treasurer her junior and senior years. She also was secretary of the Junior class and is vice president of the senior class. She was a member of the yearbook staff in her junior year and served on the Student Council in her freshman and sophomore years. She was secretary-treasurer of the Business Club last year. Nanette was an active participant in Junior Achievement and, in addition to receiving the Achiever Award, she received the pin for $100 sales, the plaque for $200 sales, and the trophies for $500 sales or top salesperson in Junior Achievement.

She received the award for scorekeeping at the volleyball games, won first prize in a school essay contest on the topic of "Education," and qualified to receive the "straight A" student baseball tickets from the Cardinals. Nanette plans to attend college and is interested in becoming a lawyer.

Kim Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson, 2836 Fortune Drive, Granite City. At Granite City South she has been vice president of Quill and Scroll and a member of the National Honor Society, the Red Peppers, the speech and theater club, the social studies club, and on the debate team for 2½ years. She was part of the team that won a second-place trophy in the Waterloo Debate Tourney, and she is future page editor of the school newspaper, the High World. In the competition of SISPA (Southern Illinois School Press Association) Kim won first place in editorial writing.

Kim has also participated in Junior Achievement and was president of the First National Bank division for two years. During local elections she has passed out informational brochures. She plans to further her education at St. Louis University and is interested in the field of communications—broadcasting or journalism.

Jeanne Palm is the daughter of Mrs. Ethel Palm and the late Willie Palm of 1216 Douglas in Madison. Currently at Madison High she is serving as president of the National Honor Society, the Student Council, and the Foreign Language Club. She has served as class president during her sophomore, junior, and senior years and was secretary of the freshman class. She is treasurer of the school band and chairman of the Class Fair. She has also participated on the junior prom committee, the girls' tennis team, and the radiation club.

Music has been important to Jeanne and she has received first-place medals at band and ensemble contests for three years. She attended the Mark Twain Summer Institute and has received the Bausch and Lomb award for math and science.

Jeanne is active in the church, Nebraska church activities and is an assistant teacher in the Sunday School. In her spare time she is studying cosmology and also likes to sew and knit. She is planning to continue her education and would like to become a medical doctor.

Guests at the tea included the four "good citizens," Mrs. Bilbrey and her mother Mrs. Dorothy Scott from Sikeston, Mo., and the following parents and friends of the honorees, Mrs. Cleve Whitaker, Mrs. Ruth Buer, Mrs. Corrine Silas, Mrs. Rosie Parnell, Alvertas Parnell, Miss Ann McIntyre, Mrs. Annie Henry, Mrs. Janice Pouncil, Mrs. Ethel Palm, and Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson.

Additional DAR members attending besides those named were Mesdames Margaret Bell, Marge Hilker, Florence Simpson, and Georgia Engleke.

Sunshine Class plans projects

The Sunshine Class of Second Baptist Church met at the home of Gladys Hudgens 2434 Illinois Ave.

The class theme song "Heavenly Sunshine" was sung to open the meeting, followed by prayer by Naomi Burnett.

Betty Lewis, a guest, gave the devotional on "Restored by Psalms" using Psalms 91 after which she closed with a prayer.

Members agreed to donate to the Home Mission fund and discussed the quarterly birthday meetings, and plan to prepare a Sunshine box for a nursing home patient.

The closing prayer was given by Evelyn Smith, the class teacher. Present were: Francis Sims, Gloria Burnett, Evelyn Smith, Frances Feldman, Norma Rains, Esther Davis, Gladys Burnett, Betty King and guest Mrs. Lewis.

CB RADIO STOLEN
Charles Rhodes, 4231 Dewey Ave., discovered that a window was broken in his truck, parked at his residence, with a 23-channel citizen band radio valued at $50 taken.

Sheila R. Gardner and Gary W. Crader are wed

Miss Sheila Renee Gardner and Gary Wayne Crader were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony on Feb. 3 at Bethel Chapel Pentecostal Church, 25th Street and Ohio Avenue.

The Rev. Clifton Gailher, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Leman Webster Crader, the groom's grandfather, performed a double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock. Nuptial selections included "We've Only Just Begun," "You Light Up My Life" and "I Can't Smile Without You."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Gardner, 2706 Nameoki Drive. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Leman Gary Crader, 14 Veronica Drive.

For her wedding, the bride chose a formal white organza gown fashioned with a fitted bodice, high neckline and long tapered sleeves, enhanced with Venice lace.

A scallop design on the full skirt was enhanced with matching lace motifs. She wore a lace Juliet headpiece to hold in place her chapel length veil of illusion and she held a bouquet of silk mums in shades of blue intermingled with yellow silk roses and baby's breath.

Attending the bride were Miss Vicki White, Mrs. Patricia Heath and her sister, Miss Rebecca Gardner.

They wore blue chiffon dresses designed with a dark blue velvet trim on the bodices and softly flowing skirts. Miss Gardner was gownned in a darker blue gown accented with white trim.

Both bridesmaids carried two white silk roses interspersed with yellow roses and blue baby's breath.

Lee Ann Peters and Ernie Miller, cousins of the bride, served as flower girl and ringbearer. She was dressed in a white lace frock complemented with a small hat. She carried a white basket filled with blue mums and yellow roses.

The groom chose John Stewart as best man. Larry Heath, a cousin of the bride, was groomsmen, and seating the guests were Jeff Rea and David McCasland. A reception was held at the Y M C A immediately following the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Gardner selected a light blue gown, and the groom's mother was attired in a royal blue dress. They both wore corsages of white mums and blue roses.

The former Miss Gardner is a graduate of the Gateway Christian Academy and the groom attended East Texas Bible College in Tyler, Tex. They are now residing in Johnston City, Ill.

Mrs. Dickerson guest speaker

A lesson on the topic "Definition of Love" was presented by Mrs. Pat Dickerson of the Cedar View Baptist Church, at a meeting held at the Mount Zion

General Baptist Church, Tuesday night.

The guest speaker was invited by the Morning and Evening Missionary Circles of the church to attend the joint session held with The Guild Girls.

Mrs. Mary Goodall opened the gathering with prayer and Mrs. Dena Williams introduced guests attending, and officers of each organization.

Entertainment for the evening was a skit performed by the Guild Girls and a song by Mrs. Elaine Unger accompanied at the piano by Cathy Ruffelt.

Mrs. Dickerson also read two poems entitled "The Preacher's Wife" in honor of the social hour celebration of the birthday of Mrs. Elsie Clark, wife of the church minister.

Table decorations featured bouquets of spring flowers and white candles in crystal holders. Centering the table was a decorated cake in pink and white. Mrs. Clark was presented with several gifts and a rose corsage.

Refreshments for the evening was a variety of salads. Dismissal prayers were offered by Mrs. Anita Harlan and Mrs. Irma Camren.

Mrs. Winter is elected

Mrs. Wilmer Winter was elected president of the Garden Study Club at a meeting last week held in the home of Mrs. Clifford Mang.

Other officers to serve for the ensuing year are Mrs. Jerry Donley, vice-president; Mrs. Norma Crenshaw, secretary and Mrs. John McComis, treasurer.

Mrs. C. E. Eads announced forthcoming events to take place at Shaw's Garden in St. Louis, to include the African Violet, Camellia and Rose Society show.

Each one present answered roll call with the name of their favorite house plant.

Other than the officers, those present were Mrs. Fred Allen, Mrs. Carl Huesman and Mrs. Bob Stonum. Mrs. Donley will host the March meeting, it was announced.

County Federal deposits rise

Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association paid $2,058,319 in interest to its savings depositors and helped 170 local families purchase homes during 1978. A. H. Froemling, president, said at the annual shareholders' meeting Wednesday.

"Our customers had a good year," Froemling said, "and so did Madison County Federal."

"The association loaned a total of $10,018,583 to local borrowers last year. The great majority of those loans were home financing loans. We're proud of our role as a leading home financing institution in this community," Froemling said. "Savings associations are specialized financial institutions created to serve the thrift and home ownership needs of the American people, and we're pleased to be doing our part."

Savings gains at Madison County Federal totaled $3,447,735 in 1978. Altogether, savers had $34,731,270 on deposit at Madison County Federal at year-end 1978.

The following were elected directors at the annual meeting of shareholders: O. T. Dunlap, Kenneth J. Hillmer, D.D.D.S., Ernest L.

Hopkins, Raymond F. Kozielek, John L. Palchiff, John W. Reese, Gilbert Rosch, Paul F. Sodko and A. H. Froemling.

Officers re-elected for the year of 1979 were: A. H. Froemling, president; J. L. Winning and Carl P. Speckling, vice-presidents; Paul F. Sodko, secretary-treasurer; M. C. Harris, J. N. Corey and B. A. Holshouser, assistant secretaries; and, in addition, J. A. Logan was elected assistant treasurer, a newly created post.

Froemling predicted that both the savings and mortgage lending departments at Madison County Federal will continue to be busy through the first half of 1979. He cautioned, however, that interest rates are expected to remain high during early 1979 and that this trend will have an adverse impact on home lending.

"As a result," Froemling said, "we expect mortgage money to be somewhat tighter than last year — and fairly expensive."

Nonetheless, Froemling said, current projections indicate "another good year for Madison County Federal and its customers."

Nurse assistant class

Only three or four places remain in a nurse assistant class being formed for a March 26 starting date at Anderson Hospital in Maryville. Belleville Area College is sponsoring the class, which will be taught by Genevieve Hill.

Classes will meet the first three weeks from 4 to 9 p.m. In the second three weeks, clinical experience will be from 4:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuition for the class is $85 and books will cost $10. Registration may be completed any time before March 26 as long as there is space in the class — there is a limit of 12 students.

Students may register in the BAC office at Granite City High School South. If all spaces are filled, names may be placed on a list for the summer class, which begins July 2. Patti Evans (276-7570) said.

Eight GC grapplers ready for state finals

GRANITE CITY—A host of area high school wrestlers, including eight Granite Cityans, will represent their schools Friday and Saturday in the annual Illinois High School Association (IHSA) State Wrestling Tournament at the Assembly Hall on the campus of the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana.

The eight Granite Cityans are evenly divided-four from Sectional champion Granite City South and four from cross-town rival GCHS. North. South qualifiers are Sam Perkins (138 pound champion), Dean Perkins (145 champ), Scott Polson (2nd at 167) and Barry Forbush (128 champ). North qualifiers are Allen Kirgan (2nd at 136), Kevin Shemwell (2nd at 138), Gerald Miller (3rd at 98) and Bob Kirgan (3rd at 112).

There are two sets of brothers representing Granite City. The Perkins from South and the Kirgans from North. Competition will get under way tomorrow (Friday) at 10 a.m. and continue through the day. By the end of the evening the semifinals in each of the 12 weight classes in the Class 1A (large schools) and Class 2A (small schools) series will be determined. Semifinal matches in Class 1A and Class 2A will be Saturday morning in Session 3, which begins at 10:30 a.m. Fifth, third and first place matches will be conducted Saturday night in Session 4 beginning at 6 p.m.

The Grand March of Finalists is scheduled to get under way at 7 p.m. Saturday. Selected to serve as Grand Marshalls for the march are Vernon Adams of Normal and Robert Strange of Lawrenceville. Both men are members of the Illinois Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association Hall of Fame. Strange, the first three-time state champion, is the former coach at Lawrenceville. Adams, one of the nation's foremost wrestling rules authorities, has served as a mat official at the State Tournament previously.

Pairings for the preliminary and first round bouts have been released. At 98 pounds, North's Miller will face Ray Ponck of Minooka in Bout 3 Friday morning. Miller has a 25-5 won-lost record, while Ponck is 36-6. He finished second in his sectional tournament.

Robert Kirgan of North will wrestle Tom O'Connor of River Grove in Bout 3 of the 112-pound class Friday morning. Kirgan is 29-4-1 and O'Connor, a junior, is 27-6 and finished second in sectional competition.

DONALD GARDNER of Venice goes up for a shot Tuesday night against East St. Louis in the Red Devils' thrilling three-point loss to the

Venice comes close, but still gets a cigar

By PETER HAYES

Sports Editor

of the Press-Record
EAST ST. LOUIS—David met Goliath here Tuesday night... and David almost came out the winner again.

But in the end, East St. Louis Senior High's Flyers were able to hold off pesky Venice to the tune of a 67-64 victory. Venice Coach Ken Perkins didn't light up a victory cigar, but he could have taken a puff anyway.

The game was a classic mis-match on paper. East St. Louis, Big, powerful, A Class 2A (large school) basketball powerhouse year in and year out.

Venice, Tiny, rebuilding. Once a Class 1A (small school) power, but now picking up the pieces and trying to come back from an 0-6 start at the beginning of the season.

But somebody forgot to tell Venice that the game was supposed to be a mis-match. The Red Devils refused to lay down and die.

But neither team exactly burned the nets, either. East St. Louis at times looked as if it didn't want to play at all and Venice appeared to be sluggish at times. The first quarter was the epitome of this.

East St. Louis jumped ahead 6-0... but the score was a mere 6-2 halfway through the period. But Venice had missed its first eight shots of the game...

all from five feet out or less. Venice managed to close the gap at the end of the first period to 10-6.

"I blame a lot of East St. Louis' inability to score on our defense," said Perkins. "Sure, they did a lot of it on their own, too. But I think our defense deserves some of the credit."

The entire game was a cat-and-mouse affair. East St. Louis leading the whole contest, but not by more than five or six points most of the time.

"They couldn't seem to shake us," said Perkins. "Some of that is accountable to us. Some to their sluggishness."

East St. Louis gave Venice a look at something it hadn't seen much of the season... quickness better than its own. "They are quick," laughed Perkins. "REAL quick. They get super play out of their guards. I think (Earl) Bell is one of the very best guards in this area."

Despite the quickness of the Flyers, they weren't able to consistently shut down the Red Devils with their press. Their press didn't seem to affect us too much," said Perkins. "Early in the game, we had a little trouble, because we weren't finding our man in the middle to get the ball to. But as soon as we did, it didn't bother us."

One factor that may have had an effect on the outcome of the game, was the fact that 6-5 center Ron Salmond picked up his fourth personal foul with 28 seconds remaining in the first half...

...and still had not scored a single point. "Ron didn't play his best game of the season tonight," said Perkins. "He's used to being one of the dominant factors in a game. But tonight, there were a few guys defending against him who were just as big or bigger and I guess it took its toll."

Three of Salmond's first half personals were charging fouls. Salmond tried to drive inside on the Flyers and was whistled for charging.

Salmond ended the game with eight points, but didn't see action again until the fourth quarter. In that period he scored all eight of his points.

Instead of charging into the defenders underneath the basket, he pivoted and whirled around them, leaving him alone underneath for the basket. "If he can come back like that with four fouls, then we'll be alright," Perkins said.

After trailing at halftime 29-18, Venice outscored the Flyers in the third quarter (19-14) and fourth (27-24) to bring them to within three points. "The thing about a game like this is that most of the players realize that if we could get within three points, we probably couldn't win too," said Perkins. "But they're not down by any means."

Trojans change but results are the same

By PETER HAYES

of the Press-Record

OKAWVILLE Things may have looked a little different here last night, but the outcome was still the same.

Madison High's Trojans played a change-of-pace against Okawville, but in the end, came out with their 20th victory of the season, 70-58.

"We just wanted to see what we looked like this way," said Madison Coach Larry Graham. "I didn't think we looked that bad, either."

The change-of-pace involved the Trojans slowing down the tempo of the game instead of using their regular run-and-gun pace. The results, however, were the same. Madison was led in scoring with Carlyn Jackson's 16 points. But there were three others who scored 10 or more points.

Kenny Stanley scored 14 points, James Heard had 14, and Eric Stanley had 10 points.

But Madison didn't shake of Okawville as it has other foes this season. The pesky Rockets managed to stay within six to 10 points of the Trojans most of the way and at one time pulled to within three points.

But the issue was never really in jeopardy. Madison continued its use of all-star

Madison 70, Okawville 58

MADISON—Eric Stanley 10, Morris Hughes 7, Carlyn Jackson 16, James Heard 14, Kenny Stanley 14, Ricky Powers 8, Claggett 1. FG 27, FT 16, PF 13, TP 70.

OKAWVILLE—Bill Leadendecker 15, Steve Lake 4, Bill Boesch 5, Steve Moeller 4, Gary Moeller 17, Mike Blumhorst 4, Mike Stine 4, Kevin Obermeier 5. FG 24, FT 10, PF 14, TP 58.

guard James Heard inside, while Kenny Stanley handled the ball much of the time and fired away from there. "James has been playing better each game," said Graham. "He had sort of an off-night against St. Paul (Highland) last Saturday, but he's in pain."

The pain referred to by Graham is in Heard's left arm and shoulder, injured last season against Lebanon in the Vandellia Sectional. Heard was operated on late last summer for the ailment, but had to sit out all but three of Madison's football games this fall while recovering. (Heard is an all-area fullback.)

"James is getting hacked a lot inside by bigger guys," Graham said. "It picks up a lot of fouls for us, but it's not too good for his shoulder."

After trailing Madison 36-

28 at halftime, Okawville suddenly found itself down by four more points less than a minute into the second half. Kenny Stanley pumped in two baskets to spark the Trojan surge.

Okawville's Gary Moeller scored 17 points, but his biggest asset to the Rockets was as a defensive player. He made life miserable for Heard, blocking six shots in the first half. However, in the second half, he didn't manage to reject one. What made the difference?

"I guess our guys were afraid to shoot over him," laughed Graham. "But he is a heck of a defensive ball player."

Last season, Madison was shot down in Okawville by a Okawville team led by hot-shot guard Billy Leadendecker. But the feisty little Rocket guard managed to score only 15 points, compared to his 41 points of a year ago. Were the Trojans keying on Leadendecker?

"No, not really," said Graham. "Last season, we came down here and ran. That sort of game best suits Leadendecker's skills. He's not as effective in a pattern-type game."

Madison began the game with a typical low-key approach. "We've got quite confident," said Graham. "Our kids are pretty sharp. We knew what happened down here last season and wanted to make sure it didn't happen again."

The 20-4 Trojans now have a week off before starting play in the Freeburg Regional against the winner of the Freeburg-Columbia game. Is that long a layoff good at this time of the season? "I think so," said Graham. "It'll give us a chance to get things together."

Okawville's record is now 15-8.

Two GC players to help L&C

GODFREY — Even with a foot of snow or more blanketing the campus, the baseball Bucks of Lewis and Clark Community College are holding daily practice sessions in Hawthay gymnasium. After all, the first game is less than six weeks away.

Coach Arnold Copeland is enthusiastic about this year's prospects. "This is the best group we have ever recruited," he said. "They are all good players, from good baseball backgrounds." Pitchers and catchers started workouts on Jan. 15; the others have been practicing since Jan. 22. An intensive period of fall practice was held in September and October. Sophomore candidates for the team include: Don Borgini,

Gillespie, is a right-handed pitcher with an excellent fast ball. He will have the benefit of last year's experience at the college level. Mike Hewitt, Alton, is another right-handed pitcher with a year of college experience behind him. Lanny Leach, Wood River, is a left-handed outfielder. Rick Bewick, Erie, is a switch-hitter who throws right-handed. He is a transfer from the University of Arkansas, where he played shortstop, but may switch to third base for the Bucks. Marvin Cook, St. Clair, is a left-handed outfielder with outstanding speed. He is a transfer from Liberty Baptist College at Lynchburg, Va. In all, there are currently 24 players on the squad. The others are: pitchers Mike Arbutnot of Alton; pitcher Leslie Fear of Edwardsville; first basemen Walt Grabner of Marquette; second basemen Kevin Carroll of Alton; third basemen Don Heiny of Edwardsville; outfielder Rodney Jackson of Edwardsville; second basemen Doug Leuvel of Alton; third basemen Gary McLain of Wood River; outfielder John Pritchard of Granite City South; catcher Dan Pohlman of Roxana; shortstop James Rhoads of Gillespie; outfielder Dan Schaus of Granite City South; pitcher Joe Silwood of Wood River; catcher Greg Wallace of Bunker Hill, and first basemen Darrell Wehrend of Edwardsville. The Bucks' schedule opens with a trip south, where they will play Northwest Mississippi at Senatobia, Miss., on March 13; Mississippi Delta Junior College at Morehead, Miss., on March 14; Ulta Community College at Ulta, Miss., on March 15; Hinds

Junior College at Raymond, Miss., on March 16 and 17; and Dyersburg State College at Dyersburg, Tenn. March 18. Other games scheduled are (home games in caps): March 20, Meramec Community College. March 22, BELLEVILLE AREA COLLEGE. March 23, WAUBONSE COMMUNITY COLLEGE. March 24, Three Rivers Community College. March 25, KANKAKEE COMMUNITY COLLEGE. March 27, East Central Junior College. the beginning of the season. It was set up about three weeks ago because of the St. Louis Public Schools teachers' strike which forced both Venice and East St. Louis to lose several games scheduled with Public High League teams.

"I think our players were a little scared at first when the game started," said Perkins. "You know, playing a big double-A school... and the size of the gym (it seats around 5,000) didn't help either. But after the first few minutes, I thought we calmed down."

Venice rallied to within three points with two minutes to play (53-50) and forced East St. Louis Coach Coy Nunn to call a timeout. But less than a minute later, Venice forced itself trailing by nine, 59-50 after two steals of Red Devils inbound passes and baskets by the opposition.

"That little spurt sort of took something out of us," said Perkins. "We did continue to play them close, but couldn't get over the hump."

After a slow start, Red Devils Donald Gardner recovered to play a good game. "Donald's our most consistent player," Perkins said. "He had a great start, but started to take the ball to the hole a little better in the second half. I think he may have just gotten over the jitters."

Ricky Jones, Venice's 6-4 forward, played good Perkins finished in each of the 12 weight classes from the four Class 1A and eight Class 2A sectional tournaments earned berths in their respective fields at the Assembly Hall. The increase Anderson's team may make the difference in the chase for team honors.

There are only four wrestlers in Class 1A who are unbeaten, while there are 29 wrestlers in Class 2A who have not tasted defeat this season.

The most overwhelming record among the unbeaten is the 4-0 mark by sophomore Ed Giese of Bensenville at 98 pounds. But Giese could be swiftly challenged in the semifinals by 29-0 Bill Kelly of Oak Lawn and the Kelly mystique, which has been dominant in recent years. Bill Kelly finished fourth at 98 last year and his brother Jerry won at 119 last year and 112 in 1977.

For the second time in the 42-year history of the state final tournament, the top finishers in each of the 12 weight classes from the four Class 1A and eight Class 2A sectional tournaments earned berths in their respective fields at the Assembly Hall. The increase in wrestlers has expanded the number of bouts to be conducted over the two-day format to 636. There will be a total of 12 wrestlers competing in each Class 1A weight division and a total of 24 wrestlers competing in each Class 2A weight division. The first place finisher in each weight class in each of the Sectionals earned a bye in the first round of competition in the State Final Tournament.

Police Local 1347 officers assume posts

New officers and appointees of Granite City Police Local 1347, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, assumed their union posts last week following swearing-in ceremonies at the City Hall.

Sergeant William Harris was installed as Local 1347 president, succeeding in the office Detective Sergeant Roy Koberna.

The ceremonies were conducted by Les Keck and George Reynolds, official representatives for the union's Illinois State Council 31.

Sgt. Harris has been a member of the Granite City Police Department since May 1, 1964. He has served in the patrol division, as juvenile officer and with the detective division, the latter for more than a two-year period.

He left the detective squad to rejoin the patrol division upon his promotion to sergeant in December 1976. The new local president holds an associate degree in law enforcement from Belleville Area College and his record with the department shows many commendations.

Head and his wife, Joyce, are the parents of two children.

Sgt. Harris also will serve as a regional vice-president of State Council 31, it was announced last week.

Installed with Harris to serve in 1979 were:

Sgt. Ron Selph, vice-president; Patrolman David Polivick, secretary; Det. Kip Pomeroy, treasurer; Patrolman Dave Rosenberg, steward; and Det. Sgt. Don Knight, sergeant-at-arms.

Members of the executive board are Koberna, Sgt. Jim Lengyel and Patrolman John W. Apperson.

Trustees installed were: Patrolman Bill Curtis, three-year term; Patrolman Dave Anderson, two-year term, and Sgt. Dennis Joyce, one-year term.

Committee members appointed by the new president and approved by the executive board include: Grievance Committee — Curtis, Selph and Rosenberg, steward; and Entertainment — Patrolmen Jerry Duncan, Rich Schardan, Mike Henderson, Apperson, Lylera, Det. Craig Nomm and Selph, chairman.

Apperson and Henderson were named as public relations officers.

Those installed were elected Jan. 8.

FATHER CANDIDATE

FAILURE TO PAY
Ricky Wolf, an employee of the Jet Elite Fina Service Station, 3300 Nameoki Road, reported at 8:15 p.m. Monday that two youths in a dark green Volkswagen obtain $4.90 worth of gasoline and drove away without paying.

High Twelve installs

Rosser Thomas McGee was installed as president of George Washington High Twelve Club 539 of Granite City at a dinner meeting held at Roustio's Restaurant in Collinsville.

The High Twelve Club is a Masonic appendant body of the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, dedicated to ideals set forth by its founder, E. C. Wolcott, a Congregational minister. Dinner was followed by the installation of officers. Web Mager installed the officers and Mel Satterfield was the installing marshal.

Other officers are James

Utley Sr. of first vice-president, Jimmie Hendrix second vice-president, Ruel Edwin Summers secretary, Donald Cramer treasurer, Richard Stagg Masonic representative, Wilmer Winter sergeant-at-arms and Jesse Zachary, chaplain. Directors are Clyde Myers, one-year term; James Russell two-year term; Roy Barney three-year term; John Barks four-year term and Kenneth Anderson, five-year term. After the installation ceremony, there was entertainment and prizes were awarded.

Reindict GC man in Nov. 19 fatal crash

Jimmy L. Creek, 42, of 3001 E. 23rd St., was reindicted Thursday by the Madison County grand jury on a charge of reckless homicide in connection with an accident Nov. 19, 1978, in which Mrs. Faye Agnes (Wilton) Lee, 64, of 5 Kaseberg Park, Pontoon Beach, was killed.

Creek appeared Friday in Madison County Circuit Court and the original bond of $50,000 was reinstated.

Associate Judge P. J. O'Neill had dismissed the charge against Creek in January, citing failure by Illinois State Police to send a trooper to preliminary hearings held two weeks apart, sources said.

December on the reckless homicide charge.

Mrs. Lee died in the accident on Illinois Route 162, a half-mile east of State Aid Route 35.

At the time of the collision, state troopers said a west-bound car driven by Creek crossed the center line of Route 162 and collided with a car driven by David Lee, 22, son of Mrs. Lee.

David Lee, Melvin Copeland, 224 Edna St., a passenger in the Creek auto, and Creek all were injured and hospitalized.

CHARGED IN EFFORT TO REMOVE TIRES

An Arlington Heights man was arrested for attempted petty theft at Bitzer-Croft Motors, Illinois 157 and State Aid 35, during the weekend.

Collinsville police were dispatched to the dealership when a security guard reported someone trying to steal tires from cars on the lot. Eight nuts had been removed on one car and another auto had been jacked up when officers arrived.

Patrolmen were discussing the incident with the guard when James Langenstein, 19, 7140 Arlington Drive, drove onto the lot. He told Sgt. Bill Dirden he had come back to get his jack. He then was taken into custody.

Public broadcasting expansion studied here

A study of public broadcasting in Illinois, similar in some respects to a recent national study by the Carnegie Commission on the "Future of Public Broadcasting," is under way here and elsewhere in the state, with a final report scheduled for release in mid-summer.

The Illinois project will give residents various opportunities to express attitudes and furnish suggestions which can affect the future development of public television and public radio in the state.

Specifically, the Illinois study will evaluate present, public TV and radio in the state, identify program services which each of these broadcast media might furnish to the people of Illinois in future years, and make recommendations regarding possible statewide coordination of present and future non-commercial television and radio activities.

The Illinois Public Broadcasting Council, comprised of representatives of Illinois public broadcast licensees, has retained Robertson Associates, Inc., a nationally-known public broadcast consulting firm, to undertake the study.

Funds are being provided by the Illinois Humanities Council in an effort to "improve the intellectual resources that can positively affect the quality of life for the people of this state, and to encourage interest in all the many aspects of the humanities," according to Dr. Marvin Vawter, IHC executive director.

Researchers already have begun personal interviews with more than 250 community leaders throughout the state, including the Quad-Cities.

During the week of April 2, nineteen public hearings will be scheduled, nine in the Chicago area and ten in other areas, to enable individual citizens and those representing community groups to voice their views on public television and public radio and to indicate program services needed or desired in the future.

A one-page questionnaire is being devised to allow for input from persons not interviewed personally or those unable to attend any of the hearings.

Separate inquiries are being conducted to involve Illinois educators at elementary, secondary, college and continuing education levels.

The consultants plan on-site visits to each of Illinois' presently-operating public broadcasting TV stations — WSHU Carbondale, WTTW Chicago, WUSI Olney, WTVF Peoria and WILL-TV Urbana.

Also visited will be the eight public radio stations — WSIU-FM Carbondale, WBEZ Chicago, WNUI DeKalb, WBEZ Edwardsville, WCBU Peoria, WSSR Springfield and WILL-FM Urbana.

Plans for new television stations in northern, western and southwestern Illinois also will be reviewed in detail, as will future public TV stations and potential use of cable, videocassettes and satellites.

Individual citizens, organizations or groups desiring further information concerning the study project are invited to contact Susan Boone, study coordinator, at the study office, 100 N. 1st St., Springfield 62701. The telephone number is 217-522-1861.

The final study report and recommendations, due by June 1, 1979, will be sent to the Illinois Public Broadcasting Council.

In turn, IPBC will present the study to the Illinois Humanities Council, the Illinois Office of Education, the Illinois Board of Higher Education and its advisory body, the Commission on Educational Television; and to the Illinois State Telecommunications Office.

All of them are being kept advised on the progress of the study and are furnishing information and counsel to the independent consultants.

The consultants retained for the project are veterans in educational telecommunications.

James Robertson, president of Robertson Associates, Inc., entered the field in Chicago in 1964 when he was selected to organize the broadcast and production activities leading to the beginning of Chicago's Channel 11, WTTW. He served as director of programming there from 1965 to 1969.

After five years with National Educational Television (NET), he went to Los Angeles to put that city's public television station, KCET, on the air as its vice president and general manager.

Subsequently director of radio and television for the University of Wisconsin, and later executive director of National Educational Radio, he formed his own consulting firm 5½ years ago.

As an independent professional, he has specialized in educational telecommunications planning and has completed studies similar to the Illinois project for Indiana, Kentucky, Nebraska, Ohio, Rhode Island and Virginia.

Associated with Robertson in the Illinois study are Dr. Elinor Richardson, Los Angeles, and Lee C. Frischknecht, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Richardson, originally a classroom teacher and principal, spent 12 years as head of telecommunications for the Los Angeles County Schools and also has been ITV consultant for the California State Department of Education.

For the past five years, she has been director of educational television programs and program manager for Los Angeles city schools' public television station, KJCS-TV.

Frisknecht, who has been in educational broadcasting since 1953, was an early administrator at Michigan State University's educational television station and later an executive of National Educational Television. He recently resigned after seven years with National Public Radio, the last four years as president.

In the Illinois study, Dr. Richardson will be concerned primarily with educational uses of the media, while Frisknecht will concentrate on planning for public radio in the state.

Working with the three major consultants are three research assistants who have graduate credentials and field experience in both education and communications.

They are Suzanne Dietrich, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville; Eric Weir, University of Illinois at Urbana; and Christopher Martin, University of Illinois Circle Campus, Chicago.

You still have time to gain an extra 1978 tax deduction with IRA or Keogh

You have until April 15, 1979—or until you file your 1978 income tax return—to establish an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) or to contribute a portion of your 1978 earnings to an existing Keogh Plan.

Through either plan, you can earn up to 8% annual interest on your contributions. And both contributions and interest earnings accumulate tax-free until you begin withdrawing these funds upon retirement—when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket.

You're eligible to open an IRA as long as you don't participate in any other tax-qualified employee plan. A Keogh Plan allows persons with self-employment income to set aside tax-deductible savings.

Twins reunited after 54 years

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Christina Postalovka came to the United States from Greece on Sept. 8, 1926, to marry Dimitra Zaikos.

She left behind her family in the Katoria-Florina area of Macedonia-Greece, including a twin sister, Cella, and she never saw her twin again until just a few short weeks ago.

Mrs. Zaikos was reunited with Cella, now Mrs. Zespolti, at the home of a third sister, Mrs. Mary Zellkoff, in Detroit, Mich.

It was a happy reunion and an important occasion for all three women.

Mrs. Zespolti's first visit to the United States ended Jan. 29 when she returned to her home. She now lives in Bucharest, Rumania.

Mrs. Zaikos' husband, Dimitra, died in 1955. He was employed many years at Laclede Steel here.

The couple resided in Madison.

Mrs. Zaikos is widely known here, a friend of the family said, and is noted for helping others less fortunate.

She is a member of the Holy Trinity Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church and for 30 years has been a member of the Holy Trinity Sisterhood, a church organization.

54 YEARS APART. Two sisters, Mrs. Mary Zellkoff of Detroit, Mich., left, and Mrs. Christina Zaikos, 1521 Sixth St., Madison, right, are reunited with their sister, Mrs. Cella Zespolti of Bucharest, Rumania, center, whom they had not seen for 54 years. Mrs. Zespolti and Mrs. Zaikos are twins.

LAW WEEK PROGRAM of the Cahokia Mound Boy Scout Council. Activities included Government Day, during which scouts filled the positions of officials of Madison, Granite City and Pontoon Beach. In a mock "swearing in" ceremony in the Madison City Council chambers, from the left, are: Scott Koberna, fire chief; John roland, city clerk; Donny Hemphill, police chief for the day; Madison Police Chief Don Bridick; Paul Miskell, treasurer, and George Mathenia, mayor, in front of Mayor Mike Sasyk. The boys were shown the workings of the city government and were taken on a tour of the fire and police departments.

Delaney's record is praised

Terrence E. Delaney, 40, the Illinois State Police lieutenant named Feb. 16 as director of the Secretary of State Investigation Division, is on leave of absence from the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement, Division of Criminal Investigation.

Nearly half of his life has been spent as a police officer, 16 years with the Illinois State Police and three as a city police officer in his home town of Washington Park, St. Clair County.

Delaney's latest assignment was to lead the state's investigation of the Pontiac Correctional Center riots last July. Three guards were murdered and several others were beaten in the riots, and indictments are forthcoming as a result of the investigation.

Secretary Alan J. Dixon, in announcing the appointment, said, "This is a giant step we are making to fully professionalize our Investigation Division."

"I have known Terry Delaney all his life. Professionally, I know him to be of the absolute highest caliber as a police officer."

"He also is a fine human being and has a well-known reputation for balancing hard-nosed police work with sound judgment and compassion. He is perfectly qualified in all ways to head up our investigators and to give us the reorganization and professionalism that we want."

Gerald J. Schilling, Delaney's supervisor in the Department of Law Enforcement, said: "The one trait that Delaney possesses, in my opinion, that has led to his success is the tremendous pride he takes in his work. Because of this pride, he has never been satisfied to do any job with less than total competency."

Delaney says his primary goals will be to upgrade the investigative force with an eye on continuing the Dixon-motivated crackdown on auto theft and related "chop shop" operations.

"We eventually will have a force that is leaner than the present 200 investigators," Delaney said. "But every person will be a thoroughly professional police officer, the best our training and supervision can provide."

One of Delaney's first takeover duties will be to meet with a Dixon committee of professional police officers, asked to conduct hearings and make an evaluation of the division. James Rochford, former Chicago Superintendent of Police, is chairman of the committee and its members include Madison County Sheriff Emil Toffant.

Dixon said that Lyle Wheeler, former supervisor of investigators, will serve as an assistant to Delaney.

'Lady, stay alive' class

"Lady, Stay Alive" is the title of a program, especially for women, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 28, in the Belleville Area College theater.

The speaker, Mrs. Carolyn Hukle, is chairman of "Crime Alert" in the metropolitan area of Des Moines and works as a volunteer with the Des Moines Police Department crime prevention unit.

Her program came about as a result of her work with juvenile detectives. She describes interviews she had with juvenile girls as "downright shocking."

Restaurant looted

Meat, coins and cigarettes were among items taken in a burglary at the Halfacre Restaurant, 2011 State St.

The burglar entered through a storage room, crawling over stored items to a window.

Meat taken from two refrigerators included ham, bacon, hamburger and steaks.

Items were scattered on the floor behind the bar and coin boxes were removed from pinball, baseball and cigarette machines and the jukebox.

A coin box attached to a wall that operates a big screen baseball game also was looted, and an attempt was made to enter three other coin-operated machines.

A bottle of vermouth and an unknown amount of coins and cigarettes were stolen, Mrs. Edna Halfacre, the owner, said.

Fined, arrested again

Danny A. Mabe, 18, of 4011 Pontoon Road, was charged with attempted theft. He is alleged to have approached a Granite City woman walking east on 21st Street, between Washington Avenue and Iowa Street, at 3:55 p.m. Feb. 12 and attempted to pull her purse away from her.

Mabe was being held for the Pontoon police Feb. 13, facing a charge of disorderly conduct; late on Feb. 12, Mabe allegedly was staggering along Park Lane in the village and was picked up by officers.

At the Pontoon police station, Mabe allegedly yelled at the officers and wanted to fight, and was taken to the Granite City Jail.

Mabe appeared before a judge at 1:20 p.m. Feb. 13, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was fined $40. He still was in custody when detectives began questioning him about the attempted purse-snatching.

At 11:15 a.m. Thursday, he pleaded innocent to the attempted theft charge and a bond was set at $2,500. He was transferred to the Madison County Jail, Edwardsville, that afternoon.

Restaurant instruction

Restaurant and other food service workers can prepare for the foodservice sanitation certification exam in classes beginning March 5 at Granite City High School South.

Belleville Area College will offer the extension course from 7 to 9:45 p.m. for eight weeks. Tuition is $19.50, with books extra.

Registration may be completed at the BAC office in Granite City South anytime prior to March 2, Pat Evans (876-7870) said.

Herman's herd among Fine Arts attractions

Magic... diverse kinds of magic... will be the theme for the 1979 Fine Arts Festival at Belleville Area College.

Jazz great Woody Herman is the best known of the wide array of talent scheduled for the two-week long celebration March 10-25.

Other attractions will include singer Tom Chapin of "Make a Wish" fame; Chicago's Second City, the improvisational theater group that provided the springboard to success for Mike Nichols, Elaine May and Shelley Berman; the Missouri Concert Ballet, the Air Force Band of Mid-America; Guatemalan classical guitarist Ron Hudson; and The Imaginary Theater Company.

Add to this group of talent area artists and musicians such as the Dixieland Allstars, roving mime David Novack and the BAC Chamber Choir performing its second Elizabethan Madrigal Feast (there will be two performances this year).

Also, magician Bud Dietrich, Don James' Big Band, Jack Stokes' Dramachoir, and Maria Luchash singing Mexican folk music.

The list gives some idea of the extensiveness of the local community college's annual cultural and entertainment potpourri.

Most of the events are free — and others are at greatly reduced prices. For example, it will cost only a dollar to attend a wine and cheese party at Augustines', and that includes the Chapin concert.

The $4 admission charge is about half what a Woody Herman concert normally costs. And the $9 charge for the Madrigal Feast includes tenderloin of beef prepared only as the Shrine Restaurant can prepare it, along with all the traditional madrigal accompaniments and wine.

Other events scheduled during the two weeks are a Joe Hickerson concert at 11 a.m. on Saturday, March 10; French films on Monday, March 12; cooperation with the Community Concert series (featuring the Four Freshmen) on March 12.

A piano concert by BAC talent contest winner Keith Lindsey at 1:15 on March 12; an early music ensemble featuring instruments from the 17th and 18th centuries on March 13; BAC faculty-student recitals on March 14.

The Lincoln Quartet from SIUE; a steak dinner in conjunction with the Second City performance (advance tickets are required for the dinner at $8 each); French films on March 19; and New York artist Ed Meneoley with a slide lecture of his current work.

Information concerning any event in the festival may be obtained by calling the Student Activities Office at the college, 235-2700, extension 324.

YOUTH ART MONTH is proclaimed in Granite City by Mayor Paul Schuler, seated, as he signs a proclamation making March "City-Wide Youth Art Month." Winterfest open Late-night ice skating and cross-country skiing will highlight Winterfest activities at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Wednesday through Friday. Varied events and entertainment will be sponsored by the university's Major Events Council (682-3880).

Activities the first day yesterday began with open play pinball in Goshen Lounge of the University Center. Other amusements for the day were a pretzel stuffing contest, a soda cracker white contest, and guitar and banjo performances by Doc Holt.

A flea market in the north hallway of the Center will open the second day of activities at 10 a.m. today. Performances by Tim Eryerman and the East Coast Offering will be featured in Goshen at 11 a.m. The "most original long-john contest" will begin at noon.

On Friday, the band "Rocking Horse" will appear in Meridian Ballroom of the University Center at 11 a.m. A contest for "best remedy for a cold" will be held at noon.

Tours of the Anheuser-Busch brewery are scheduled Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Buses will depart from the university hairpin turn at 1 p.m.

Winterfest late-night activities include "frothy night" last night, late ice skating tonight and a disco dance Friday in the Encounter Room of the Edwardsville Holiday Inn.

Sanders to head search

Appointment of Keith R. Sanders, 39, professor of speech communication at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, as chairperson of the SIU Chancellor Search Assistance Council, was announced Thursday evening by Harris Rowe, chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees.

The Council is being established to act in an advisory capacity to the Board of Trustees in its search for a chancellor. The Council will consist of six persons from each university — Carbondale and Edwardsville — representing faculty, students, employees and alumni.

Rowe said Sanders was selected from six persons from both campuses who were considered to head the Search Assistance Council.

After discussing procedures with Sanders, Rowe said, "We are in full agreement that the search should be open, comprehensive and nationwide, and responsive to the unique needs of the two universities."

"We also agree that the Council will be central and highly influential within the limits of the board's responsibility for making the final selection and appointment of the chancellor."

Sanders will be relieved of his teaching duties to work full time on the search until the chancellor selection has been completed.

According to the board approved Feb. 19, establishing the Council, the chairman, with the approval of the board, will name the members of the Council from panels consisting of double the number of representatives to be named.

The panels are to be submitted to him in time for the Council membership to be approved by the board at its March 8 meeting in Carbondale.

Georgette Tanksley wins top honors

Georgette Tanksley, a 14-year-old student at Madison High School, captured four first-place awards while participating in a weekend contest held at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

First place honors were in Dance twirl, basic solo, advanced military march and beginner. She also received a second in solo twirl, third in parade march and hoop, fourth in the flag segment and in the Miss Sweetheart Pageant competition.

Miss Tanksley, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tanksley, 1146 Rhodes St., is a freshman student at Madison High School, where she serves as head majorette and featured twirler.

The two-day event was sponsored by the Sharon Young School of Baton of Granite City.

School talks on problem solving

Area teachers and school administrators are being invited to an informal seminar on "problem solving" sponsored by the Teachers' Center Project of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The session is scheduled Monday, Feb. 26, at 4:30 p.m. in SIUE's Classroom Building III, Room 1312. The speaker will be Robert Tappay, educational consultant for Scientific American and author of the "aha! Insight Box" and co-author with Martin Gardner of "aha! Insight," published by the W. H. Freeman Co.

In addition to the Teachers' Center seminar, Tappay will present keynote speeches at the annual meetings of the Mathematics Club of Greater St. Louis and the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics (Carbondale), as well as conducting seminars for teachers at the John Burroughs School and a faculty seminar at SIUE.

Domestic raw steel production reached its highest level in four years during 1978, new figures show. Mills in the U.S. poured 136,680,000 tons of steel last year, up 13,356,000 tons from 1977's output of 123,324,000 tons, marking the highest one-year production since 1974, when it reached 145,720,000 tons.

December's steel production was 11,812,000 tons, up slightly from November's 11,654,000 tons of output, and up from 10,631,000 tons of raw steel produced in December 1977.

The nation's steel industry operated at a capability utilization rate of 87.7 percent in December, and averaged a rate of 86.6 percent for all of 1978.

Of 1978's total raw steel production, 83,484,000 tons came from basic oxygen furnaces, 31,895,000 tons from electric furnaces and 21,301,000 tons from open hearths. In December, BOP's produced 7,390,000 tons, electric furnaces 2,669,000 and open hearths, 1,753,000 tons.

During December, 1,699,000 tons of raw steel were strand or pressure cast produced through continuous casting processes, bringing the total for the year to 19,376,000 tons. These tonnages are included in the raw steel production figures.

Area teachers and school administrators are being invited to an informal "problem solving" sponsored by the Teachers' Center Project of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The session is scheduled Monday, Feb. 26, at 4:30 p.m. in SIUE's Classroom Building III, Room 1312. The speaker will be Robert Tappan, educational consultant for Scientific American and author of the "aha! Insight Box" and co-author with Martin Gardner of "aha! Insight," published by the W. H. Freeman Co.

In addition to the Teachers' Center seminar, Tappan will present keynote speeches at the annual meetings of the Mathematics Club of Greater St. Louis and the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics (Carbondale), as well as conducting a seminar for teachers at the John Burroughs School and a faculty seminar at SIUE.

'78 production of steel most in four years

Domestic raw steel production reached its highest level in four years during 1978, new figures show. Mills in the U.S. poured 136,889,000 tons of steel last year, up 11,356,000 tons from 1977's output of 125,533,000 tons, marking the highest one-year production since 1974, when it reached 145,720,000 tons.

December's steel production was 11,812,000 tons up slightly from November's 11,654,000 tons of output, and up from 10,031,000 tons of raw steel produced in December 1977.

The nation's steel industry operated at a capability utilization rate of 87.7 percent in December, and averaged a rate of 86.6 percent for all of 1978.

Of 1978's total raw steel production, 83,484,000 tons came from basic oxygen furnaces, 31,895,000 tons from electric furnaces and 21,510,000 tons from open hearths. In December, BOP's produced 7,390,000 tons, electric furnaces 2,660,000 tons and open hearths, 1,783,000 tons.

During December, 1,699,000 tons of raw steel were strand or pressure cast (produced through continuous casting processes), bringing the total for the year to 19,376,000 tons. These tonnage are included in the raw steel production figures.

Women of Moose fetes Mrs. Mees

Mrs. Mildred Mees, chairman of the hospital committee, was accorded special honors and presented with a Valentine corsage, in conjunction with the hospital chapter night observed by the Women of the Moose Chapter 247, last week at the Moose Lodge.

Senior Regent Sara Gusewelle opened the session and after the presentation Mrs. Mees introduced her committee members.

The enrollment of four new candidates was held for Mrs. Elaine Sensabaugh, sponsored by her daughter, Mrs. Cora Besserman; Mrs. Betty McGee, Mrs. Alice McGee, and Mrs. Maureen Burris, all sponsored by Mrs. Rosella Mead, and the program for the candidates was Mrs. Velma Finney.

Pro-tem officers for the evening were Mrs. Veronica Wilson, Virginia Sever, Frances Polley, Leitha Worthen, Mildred Votuppal, Jay Kahn, Mary Driscoll, Mary L. Busler, Dian Warfield and Alice Skaggs.

The chapter plans a fish fry on Saturday, Feb. 24, from 12 noon to 7 p.m. at the Moose Lodge, and carry outs are available. Cost of the dinner is $2.50 and includes dessert and drink. Tickets may be purchased from any member or at the door.

Prizes were awarded during the social hour and the hospital committee served a variety of salads, crackers and coffee to 31 members. The table decorations were in a hospital theme with nurses hats and medical items on the table and also valentine hearts with nut cups filled with candy for the Valentine Day motif. The next chapter meeting will be held on Feb. 28, Mrs. Gusewelle added.

Miss Bunselmeyer bride-elect

Plans for a Nov. 24 wedding were disclosed with the engagement announcement of Miss Janet Bunselmeyer and Robert Holzhauser by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bunselmeyer, Rural Route One, Granite City.

The prospective groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holzhauser, 2231 Pontoon Road. Both young people are 1975 graduates of Granite City High School North. Miss Bunselmeyer is employed as a teller at the First National Bank in St. Louis.

Her fiancé will graduate in June of this year from Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.

The engaged couple are completing plans for their wedding to be solemnized at St. John United Church of Christ.

MISS BECKY MARLETTE and her fiancé Barry Collins. Their betrothal is announced by her parents, Louis Marlette, 2300 Clinton Drive, and Mrs. Virginia Boxdorfer, 1720 Fifth St., Madison. A June 2 wedding is planned.

WORKING IT OUT BY THINKING IT OUT. Whether studying a wiring panel (above) or admiring the finished product (below)

Students' pride and joy — the building trades house

No matter who buys it, the place still belongs to the kids. They worked hard to bring it into being, and the house at 2134 Hamilton Drive is their baby.

The kids are students from both Granite City high schools. They are involved in the building trades program offered by the district.

The program is designed to put what the students learn in class into practice, and that is exactly what has been going on over the past several years.

The students have designed and built two houses since the program's inception. The one on Hamilton Drive is the third, and it is nearly finished.

Everything with the exception of brick, tile and carpet has been done with student power.

The plans for the house on Hamilton Drive were drafted by students. The ductwork was made in the class workshops, each piece designed just for the house.

Walls, windows, insulation, wiring, roofing and finishing have all been done by the students.

It is a massive undertaking, overseen by teachers Larry King, Max Forbes, Emil Kania and Alan Turner.

According to King, who coordinates the actual construction, students in the building trades program are serious about their work.

"It is a matter of pride. They want the finished project to be good. They come back long after the house has been sold to show 'their house,'" he said. "They learn to do things the right way. They have me and the other instructors to help them correct mistakes. The result is a well-built house and conscientious workers."

The young people also learn a work ethic, according to King. He said they learn how to cooperate so they may work well with others.

They also learn how important it is to be on the job when they are supposed to be. This, King believes, makes for good workers, and that is what employers are always interested in.

The program is turning out some good carpenters, electricians, sheetmetal men and heating and air-conditioning people. Part of that training comes from the classroom and some of it comes from the hands-on experience that the students receive.

By the time they graduate, the kids have had what amounts to four years of training in the trade chosen. Before a student ever actually drives a nail on the building site, he has had courses in the woods program, principles of machines and mechanics, unit drafting, and mathematics.

It is only after they have taken all of these courses that they may apply for the building trades program.

An applicant's grades and his attendance are among the things taken into consideration when the decision is made as to who will get into the program.

For those who make the program and work hard, there are a great many rewards. Many move right from the program into apprenticeships in the building trades. Some go on to form their own construction companies, providing more jobs in the trades.

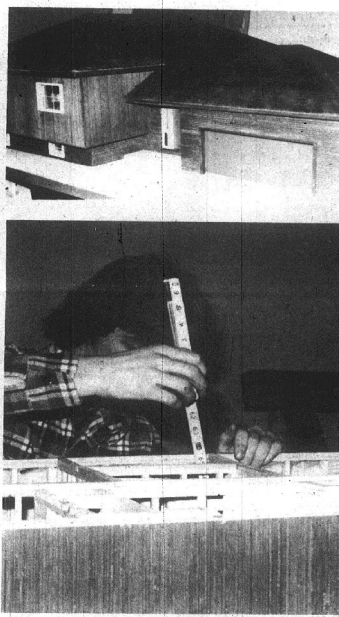

The schools program is self-supporting, since the houses built by the students are sold and most of the money goes into the next project. Any profits go into a fund that may be drawn on by other departments.

With the weather not always being right for being out on the site, the kids in King's class decided to put together a model of the house they were building.

What started out to be a little side project has become a beautiful scale replica of the house on Hamilton Drive. They are so proud of it that it may soon be on public display.

The work has been hard and dirty, but the students can take pride in a job well done.

The house on Hamilton Drive will be enjoyed by some family for years to come. And the model will serve as a trophy to the building trades program, a most successful way to learn a skill.

Backs community reinvestment act

State Treasurer Jerry Cosentino has expressed strong support for the new Community Reinvestment Act as a "significant force that underscores the importance of community service lending as a stimulant to local economic growth."

Though the law went into effect on Nov. 6, 1978, lending institutions were allowed 90 days to comply. That meant that beginning Feb. 5, 1979, all banks and savings and loan institutions were required to draft and make available written statements defining their community market boundaries and also to specify what types of loans they are willing to provide there.

"Under this law," said Cosentino, "federal agencies that currently regulate the banking industry along with community action and consumer groups can effectively monitor the performance of lenders in serving the economic needs of their communities. It certainly should be an effective weapon in combating red-lining."

Cosentino also said the CRA highlights the importance of the Community Services Program for deposits in Illinois, whereby the state treasurer has used the community service performance of banks and S & L's as the main criteria for allocating one-year deposits of state funds.

Cosentino said that during his brief tenure as treasurer, bankers in Illinois have expressed themselves as supportive of the Community Services Program.

"Bankers are businessmen," he said, "and therefore they realize the wisdom of investing funds locally in order to build stable communities, promote commercial development and revitalize urban neighborhoods."

In addition, the treasurer reaffirmed his commitment to continue the placement of state deposits within communities that suffered extensive damage caused by the January blizzard.

"Our allocation of $50 million in deposits for banks and S & L's located in the counties that were declared disaster areas is a prime example of how state funds can be put to work helping people endure the economic hardships caused by natural disasters," Cosentino said.

10 years of accomplishment by Explorers of Post 10-4

Explorer Post 10-4 will celebrate its tenth year of operation at the eighth annual family night Wednesday, Feb. 28, in the Madison Memorial Center.

Internationally famous big game hunter and photographer Dana Brown will talk about his "safari land" exploration in remote parts of Africa and Asia.

Post 10-4 was organized in 1969 by W. F. "Mick" Strange, under the joint sponsorship of the Madison Lions and the Madison Police.

In September 1969, present Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk was then president of the Madison Board of Police Commissioners. After a presentation on Exploring at a Lions Club meeting by Strange, Sasyk made the motion to start the post. It was seconded by Ed Rys Dubish, who at the time was a member of the police board and now is board president.

Since its beginning, Post 10-4 has had members from the entire Quad-City area, as it does at the present time. Purpose of the post has always been to develop leadership and responsibility in youths from the Quad-Cities who become members, according to Strange, in addition to showing the many career opportunities in law-enforcement-related areas.

The post's ten-year history includes a number of accomplishments, according to Strange, Chief of Police Donald L. Bridick.

Post 10-4 is a nationally recognized leader among law enforcement specialty Explorer posts, being the first one organized in Illinois south of Chicago.

Members and adults within the post have had a direct part in assisting in the formation of 13 other Explorer posts, including Post 10-3 of the Granite City Police Department.

Steve Fisher, was senior crew leader of Post 10-4 at the time. Post 10-4 also aided in organizing Post 255 in Ponton Beach.

Adult leaders and the Madison police receive an average of six inquiries or more a year from other police departments in Illinois and other states, wanting advice on post organization of programs.

The post is the second oldest in the council, and has the longest membership retention record.

The post's activities have been written up twice in the National Explorer magazine, and numerous times in the 12-state-area North Central Region Explorer newsletter.

Bruce Rotter, former post president, served in 1976-77 as area chairman of Area Three, with an Explorer chairman from the Cahokia Mount Council.

Six of the past nine chiefs of the Cahokia Lodge Order of the Arrow, scouting's national honor camping society, have been members of Post 10-4.

In 1974, the post went to Washington, D.C., and became the first Explorer post in the nation to tour and be the guest of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Members, on "super-activities," have visited such places as Daytona Beach and Orlando, Fla.; Pike's Peak and other parts of Colorado; Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Johnson Space Center at Houston, Tex., and the Alamo at San Antonio, Tex. They also have visited the country of Mexico.

Members of the post have assisted the Madison Police on extensive searches for stolen goods and lost children; and have been directly responsible for the apprehension and conviction of felons.

Members of the post annually assist the police in collecting for the Heart Fund, and assist in Tri-Cities Area United Way drives.

The Explorers are also encouraged to assist Boy Scout troops, where several members serve and have served as assistant scoutmasters and junior assistant scoutmasters.

The current adviser to the post is Madison Police Officer William Weidner, who joined the post at age 18. Chief of Police Bridick was the first adviser. At that time, he served as juvenile officer of the police department.

The presidents of 10-4 have been: John Richard Hooks of Venice, the first president; Terry Toth of Granite City, Mike Bilbrey of Venice, Weidner of Madison, Jack Small of Granite City, Kevin Kearns of Granite City, Bruce Rotter of Granite City, Gary Gravelle of Madison, Bill Kinkel of Granite City, and the current president, Keith Sanders of Madison.

The post meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at the Madison Police Department and is open to young men in the Quad-City area aged 14 and at least freshmen in high school.

Speakers at the post meetings have included representatives of virtually all national, state, county and local law enforcement agencies, in addition to such related areas as railroad and private security, corrections and law.

Madison Police Unit 110 assumed full sponsorship of Post 10-4 in 1973.

Avenue. Last week was Law Week for the Boy Scouts of America and Scouts assumed various governmental duties in the Quad-Cities. The political convention atmosphere — complete with signs, chants, speeches and confusion — seemed realistic as a "presidential candidate" was chosen.

Changing trends in education cited

"Status of Student Competency: Historical Background" was the topic of Owen Humphrey, curriculum coordinator of the Granite City school district, at a Citizen Advisory Council (CAC) meeting held at the board office.

Humphrey prefaced his address with the comment that citizens feel that moral, economic and political problems can best be solved by having schools attuned to public sentiment.

He is in full agreement with this concept, and stressed that community needs can best be met through local control by elected school boards. "Our community should guard against erosion of local control," Humphrey stressed.

He gave a historical review of trends in education in the United States, from "Get rid of progressive education" in the '40s, to the "Modern approach to education" of the '50s in order to overcome a technological lag.

In the 1960s, drug abuse and sex education classes were first encouraged and then condemned, he said. During the late '60s, high schools were criticized for being too college-oriented. Vocational offerings were increased as a result.

The '70s brought concern for declining test scores, and a trend toward competency testing, Humphrey acted. "At the turn of the century, only six percent of the youth graduated from high school. Now, 40 percent graduate from high school."

"A proliferation of courses and a more comprehensive high school program have brought about different expectations of students from those of earlier years. Furthermore, not only the select students are being educated. Therefore, tests which were administered in earlier years are not always applicable to skills taught today," Humphrey concluded.

Following are speakers and topics for the remainder of the school year: Feb. 28, Thomas Holloway, "Vocational Offerings: Overview"; March 28, Owen Humphrey, "Testing for Competency: What We Teach"; April 25, Donald Shaffer, "Progress on Off-Campus Programs"; and May 23, Leigh Heller, "Educating for Physical Fitness."

Earlier in the year, presentations were given by Vasil Eftimoff, who spoke on "Pupil Personnel Services"; Joe Owens, "Vocal and Instrumental Music"; Merna Musterman, "Programs for the Gifted"; and Eugene Alassi, "Special Education Art Education."

The Citizens Advisory Council usually meets on the fourth Wednesday of each month at 5:30 p.m. at the Board of Education Office, 20th and Adams streets. Visitors are invited, and if any organization is not represented, it may request representation on the committee.

Following are the participating organizations with their representatives: Donald Patrick, CAC chairman, Ponton Beach Lions Club; C. A. MacMillan, CAC vice-chairman, Coordinated Youth Services; Patricia Gonwa, CAC secretary, American Federation of Teachers; Barbara Haddock, PTA; Nancy Graf Granite City Education Association; Art Mendez elementary principals; Gilbert Walmesley secondary principals; Stephen Saltich, Granite City School Board; Pearl Kennerly, Business and Professional Women.

Edwin Reiske, Trades and Labor Council; Ray Grisham, Breakfast Kiwanis; Victor Anderson, Optimists; Owen Humphrey school administration.

McPike pushing for SIU action

Rep. Jim McPike (D-Alton) is pursuing his effort to persuade Governor James Thompson to request the resignation of all seven members of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees.

"For nearly four weeks, I have followed closely the activity of the SIU board as it debated the changes in the governance structure of the university. Unlike Board Chairman Harry Rowe, I would like to compliment the press on the excellent coverage under difficult circumstances," Rep. McPike said last week.

"The events of Feb. 7 and 8 clearly demonstrated that all decisions on governance were made in executive session in violation of the Illinois Open Meeting Act. I further believe the board exceeded its statutory authority when it stripped the presidents at Edwardsville and Carbondale of their autonomy," he added.

"Trustees have ignored all testimony from students, faculty and the public in the Edwardsville area and have made a decision that could adversely affect this campus for years to come."

"To reverse these irresponsible decision, I am taking the following action:

1. "Sending a letter to Governor Thompson asking him to request the resignation of all seven board members."
2. "Sending a letter to Attorney General William Scott requesting that he investigate the actions of the trustees, hold them in violation of the Open Meetings Act and declare their actions illegal in that they exceeded their statutory authority."
3. "Sending a letter to the state's attorneys in Springfield, Carbondale and Edwardsville requesting they investigate the closed meetings in Sangamon, Jackson and Madison counties and take appropriate legal action."
4. "Introducing legislation that will statutorily establish autonomous presidents at Edwardsville and Carbondale reporting directly to the SIU Board of Trustees."
5. "Introducing legislation to establish separate boards for each of the three campuses."

"If the move by Chicago to establish two Boards of Higher Education (one for Downstate and one for Chicago) succeeds, autonomous boards for each Downstate university reporting individually to the downstate board of higher education is a sensible solution to the problem."

'Foggy River' to perform Mar. 16

The Youth Fellowship of St. John United Church of Christ is presenting a night of family entertainment by sponsoring "The Foggy River Boys" of Branson, Mo., in concert at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave., on Friday, March 16, at 8 p.m.

Tickets costing $3 per person are now on sale from any member of the Youth Fellowship or from the church office of St. John United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road, 877-6060. Tickets also will be on sale at the door the night of the performance, according to Mrs. Sharon Engelke. Winner of the 1978 Mid-Continent Quartet Contest, the group is said to appeal to every age. Inheriting a musical tradition established in the 1940s and carried on through the 1960s by the original Jordanaires of Nashville's Grand Ole Opry, the "Foggy River Boys" have expanded on the Jordanaires' repertoire to embrace virtually every type of vocal music, Mrs. Engelke added.

Concert tonight at Madison High

Contemporary music marches and a folk suite will be among the selections presented by the Madison Senior High School Concert Band at its second concert of the 1978-79 season, starting at 8 tonight.

A feature of the program will be a flute solo played by Jeanne Palm, a senior music student, accompanied by the band.

The concert will be under the direction of William F. Ledbetter, director of instrumental music in the Madison schools.

Included in the program will be:
"Concert Overture" by Clifford P. Lilly; "Ballad Parisien" by Jacques Offenbach; "American Folk Suite" by Harold Walters; "Polovetzian Dances" by Borodin.

"Westside Story" selections Leonard Bernstein; "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" Richard Rodgers; "High School Cadets" by John Philip Sousa; and "Marche Triomphale" by Hector Berlioz.

Admission is by season ticket or single admissions. Available at the door, cost $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Assisting with arrangements for the concert will be members of the Madison Band Parents Club.

Most of governor's appointees approved

By CARYL CARSTENS
Springfield Bureau

Most of Gov. James Thompson's appointments to fill major cabinet posts cleared the Senate Executive Appointments Committee last week.

Held over for later action were reappointment of Joan Anderson as director of the Department of Registration and Education and Bradley Evisizer as director of the Department of Mines and Minerals.

Sen. Sam Vadala, D-Edwardsville, chairman of the Executive Appointments Committee, said Anderson's appointment is being held until problems within the department are resolved. She is expected to meet with Thompson on the difficulties.

Evisizer's appointment also will be held until some problems are resolved, according to Vadala. Preliminary interviews were held with appointees prior to the committee meeting, and appointments called for consideration were approved swiftly by unanimous committee votes.

The appointments must be approved by the full Senate to become effective. Appointment of Gayle M. Frazan as director of the Department of Corrections, and Gregory L. Coler as director of the Department of Children and Family Services were among those approved.

Other directorships sent to the floor of the Senate for final action were Dan K. Webb, Law Enforcement;

Frank Beal, Institute of Natural Resources; William Bowling, Labor; Edgar Callahan, Financial Institutions.

J. Thomas Johnson, Local Government Affairs; David Kenney, Conservation; John D. Kramer, Transportation; Richard Mathias, Insurance; Michael Maury, Environmental Protection Agency; Arthur Quera, Public Aid; James B. Zagel, Revenue, and William Bous, Personnel.

Assistant directors approved included James McCarthy, Law Enforcement; James Skelton, Insurance; James Helfrich, Conservation; Michael P. Lage, Adult Division, Corrections.

Skelton was the Republican candidate for state treasurer in the November election. The appointments were cleared by the committee including Lynn E. Baird, Illinois State Police superintendent, and Jack Carter, state fire marshal.

Vadala postponed hearings on two appointments because, he said, the appointees were unable to be present.

They were Robert DeVito, reappointed director of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities, and John Block, reappointed director of Agriculture.

Among other appointments being cleared are Ethel Gindoff of Springfield, Prisoner Review Board, and Carol Lohman, of Springfield, Board of Higher Education.

'Scary' Illinois research may trigger new look at U.S. herbicides

In an effort to determine the human health effects of the defoliant known as Agent Orange, researchers at the University of Illinois at the Medical Center, Chicago, have launched a research program that could trigger a new look at herbicide spraying in the nation.

The program includes a study of a central Wisconsin farm accidentally sprayed with an herbicide eight years ago; a computerized case-history study of Vietnam veterans exposed to Agent Orange; a report on the veterans' wives and special immunological screening tests for veterans and others who have come in contact with the defoliant.

John Bederka, Ph.D., associate professor of pharmacology and chief of the Section of Toxicology, University of Illinois Hospital, is coordinating the farm research and case-history assessments.

Mitsuo Yokoyama, M.D., Ph.D., professor of pathology and microbiology at the Medical Center Campus, is setting up the immunological screening.

Agent Orange, used in heavy quantities in Vietnam to defoliate jungle areas and expose enemy hiding places, is being sprayed in lesser amounts throughout the U.S. to kill poisonous weeds in cattle pastures and farm crop areas, contain roadside weeds and brush, and control forest growth.

"The chemical, a mixture of the phenol-related compounds 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T, contains a trace impurity known as dioxin, the most toxic substance created by humans.

"Most chemicals are toxic at the parts per billion level," Dr. Bederka stated. "But, research has shown dioxin to be 1,000 times more dangerous—toxic at levels as low as five parts per trillion.

"That's an amount that cannot be seen by the eye. In fact, no safe level of dioxin has yet been established."

Dr. Bederka added that dioxin attacks the body's immunity system, which is man's defense mechanism against diseases, and even alters fundamental life processes involved with DNA.

Cells, cell nuclei and even chromosomes, which are part of a cell's nucleus, are affected by dioxin.

Many veterans exposed to Agent Orange in Vietnam, as well as other individuals who have come into contact with the herbicide, have complained of symptoms ranging from headaches, numbness and other neurological problems to psychological changes, skin problems, liver imbalances, intestinal disorders and even cancer.

In addition, the dioxin impurity in the herbicide is suspected of causing human birth defects and is known to cause birth defects in animals.

"We will be attempting to obtain the case histories of area veterans, their wives and families," Dr. Bederka said. "We also hope to get data from other veterans in various parts of the country."

"Once these histories are computerized, we can begin to assess cause and effect probabilities as to the deformed babies and other symptoms these veterans are experiencing.

"If it's true that veterans' exposure to the herbicide, namely the 2,4,5-T in the mixture, has resulted in the birth of deformed children, it will be the only non-genetic case in which a male has been shown to cause such defects—and that's scary," he added.

In conducting the drug and chemical assays on the chicken samples, two are especially looking for the presence of heavy metals and herbicide residues, namely phenols," Dr. Bederka explained.

"The presence of phenols would indicate the presence of dioxin."

Dioxin is found in all 2,4,5-T (trichlorophenol) products. Preliminary results of the chemical assays, are expected later this spring. Dr. Bederka plans to raise another group of chickens on the Freedlund farm, beginning in late spring. A second group of chickens may also be raised for comparative purposes on another farm near the Freedlunds.

"Circumstantial evidence presently points to herbicide spraying as the culprit that's affecting the chickens," Dr. Bederka said.

Dr. Ward Richter, director of the Animal Research Facility at the University of Chicago, recently conducted histopathologies on some of the deformed chickens that

Dr. Bederka raised on the Freedlund farm. He examined cells, tissues and all the organs of the birds to determine whether the birds had any crippling diseases that spontaneously occur in chickens. Leg muscles and tendons were also checked.

"His preliminary finding was that the chickens had no known or obvious diseases other than the unexplained crippling or paralysis," Dr. Bederka said.

He added that when the Freedlund farm was sprayed in 1971, the chickens developed paralysis and curved toes.

"If we can show that these effects in the birds are attributable to herbicide residue, that would mean the lethal effects of the chemical have persisted on that farm for eight years—reason enough for abandoning the use of the herbicide," he said.

Meanwhile, relatively high amounts of dioxin have been discovered in the fat of cattle that graze on pastures sprayed with the Agent

Orange compound. "These are the same cattle that are being slaughtered for food in the country," Dr. Bederka stated.

He added that "if organisms and animals are dying around us (as a result of the herbicide), we could very well be next. These animals are just model systems for the human race."

"We don't know what the long-term effects of these herbicides are. People for the last 20 years or more have been ingesting the chemicals. And their children are just now starting to reproduce their own offspring."

"The next two generations may well start showing the effects of this increasing concentration of herbicides in our bodies."

Dr. Bederka also urged that people not purchase any substances containing 2,4,5-T for household use.

"Many weed-control agents which people use to spray on their yards or gardens have 2,4,5-T in them," he said. "Any product with 2,4,5-T contains dioxin and poses a hazard to the health of the persons who use or come in contact with the product."

and five children, experienced symptoms such as headaches, skin rashes, loss of bladder control and intestinal disorders.

In addition, Nettie Freedlund later suffered two miscarriages.

Changes also took place in some of the farm animals. Pigs and chickens were being born deformed, cows gave bitter milk and hens were laying soft-shelled eggs. Also, the Freedlunds were finding dead birds and snakes, and dwarf skunks in the area.

"I first heard about the spraying incident in 1975," Dr. Bederka said. "This past summer, I traveled to the farm. At that time, the family told me of its attempt to raise chickens in 1977."

"The chickens were first raised indoors in the spring and later turned loose in the farm yard. Three or four months after being turned loose, most of the chickens were either paralyzed or dead."

In August of last year, Dr. Bederka purchased three groups of chickens at two-week intervals, 50 chickens to a group. Within several months, 15 percent of the 150 chickens had died, and another 60 percent had leg and toe abnormalities.

"About 25 percent of the birds were barely able or unable to stand," he said.

In collecting the veteran case histories, researchers at the University of Illinois Medical Center Campus are cooperating with veteran coordinators and representatives from throughout the area.

Also working directly with veterans exposed to the chemical is Dr. Yokoyama, who has set up special immunological screening tests to determine whether or not the herbicide has had any effects on the victims' immunity systems.

The screening will be conducted using blood samples from the patients. "Specifically, we're doing two types of tests—the Humoral Immunity Test and the Cellular Immunity Test," Dr. Yokoyama related.

Humoral Immunity screening enables researchers to determine whether the naturally-formed antibodies in an individual exposed to Agent Orange have been altered, and whether any abnormal antibodies have been newly formed in the body.

With the Cellular Immunity Test, researchers can measure levels of leukocytes. Leukocytes act as defense mechanisms against foreign substances in the body.

Screening results of persons exposed to Agent Orange will be compared with a control group of individuals who have not been in contact with the herbicide, Dr. Yokoyama said.

Meanwhile, Dr. Bederka is also doing chemical assays on blood, liver and fat samples taken from chickens that he raised last summer on a central Wisconsin farm that was accidentally sprayed in 1971 with a chemical defoliant similar to the one used in Vietnam.

According to reports, a helicopter had been spraying nearby woods when strong winds blew clouds of the chemical onto the farm.

During the next few years, the family, which includes Harold and Nettie Freedlund

"If we can show that these effects in the birds are attributable to herbicide residue, that would mean the lethal effects of the chemical have persisted on that farm for eight years—reason enough for abandoning the use of the herbicide," he said.

Meanwhile, relatively high amounts of dioxin have been discovered in the fat of cattle that graze on pastures sprayed with the Agent

Orange compound. "These are the same cattle that are being slaughtered for food in the country," Dr. Bederka stated.

He added that "if organisms and animals are dying around us (as a result of the herbicide), we could very well be next. These animals are just model systems for the human race."

"We don't know what the long-term effects of these herbicides are. People for the last 20 years or more have been ingesting the chemicals. And their children are just now starting to reproduce their own offspring."

"The next two generations may well start showing the effects of this increasing concentration of herbicides in our bodies."

Dr. Bederka also urged that people not purchase any substances containing 2,4,5-T for household use.

"Many weed-control agents which people use to spray on their yards or gardens have 2,4,5-T in them," he said. "Any product with 2,4,5-T contains dioxin and poses a hazard to the health of the persons who use or come in contact with the product."

chemical assays on the chicken samples, two are especially looking for the presence of heavy metals and herbicide residues, namely phenols," Dr. Bederka explained.

"The presence of phenols would indicate the presence of dioxin."

Dioxin is found in all 2,4,5-T (trichlorophenol) products. Preliminary results of the chemical assays, are expected later this spring. Dr. Bederka plans to raise another group of chickens on the Freedlund farm, beginning in late spring. A second group of chickens may also be raised for comparative purposes on another farm near the Freedlunds.

"Circumstantial evidence presently points to herbicide spraying as the culprit that's affecting the chickens," Dr. Bederka said.

Dr. Ward Richter, director of the Animal Research Facility at the University of Chicago, recently conducted histopathologies on some of the deformed chickens that

Dr. Bederka raised on the Freedlund farm. He examined cells, tissues and all the organs of the birds to determine whether the birds had any crippling diseases that spontaneously occur in chickens. Leg muscles and tendons were also checked.

"His preliminary finding was that the chickens had no known or obvious diseases other than the unexplained crippling or paralysis," Dr. Bederka said.

He added that when the Freedlund farm was sprayed in 1971, the chickens developed paralysis and curved toes.

"If we can show that these effects in the birds are attributable to herbicide residue, that would mean the lethal effects of the chemical have persisted on that farm for eight years—reason enough for abandoning the use of the herbicide," he said.

SMART SHOPPER

One way to reduce the effects of inflation is to be a SMART SHOPPER. Compare before you buy. Select and buy the car that gives you more value. We believe our pre-owned cars give you more value, dollar for dollar, than our competitors. That's why we're holding SMART SHOPPERS WEEK, MON., FEB. 12 through SAT., FEB. 17. We invite you to stop by this week.

Sincerely,

Bill Woodrome

Building or Remodeling?
Adding to Your Business?
Building a New Facility?

Don't get RIPPED OFF by fast talk of low prices and cheap labor. Check these things before you sign a contract.

(1) Does your contractor hire carpenters that are members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America-AFL-CIO?

(a) If he does they are trained craftsmen and he must carry Workmen's Compensation Insurance for your protection.

(2) Check other jobs he has done. Are these customers satisfied?

(3) Is he asking for a large down payment before he starts the job?
